QUIMBY GIRL TO RETURN

Gertrude Quimby who ran away from her home in Boston on May 16, and was found in New York by the police yesterday afternoon, was arraigned this afternoon in the Childrens Court in that city as a wayward child.

Secretary Walsh of the New York Children's Society stated that he had been in communication with the secretary of the Boston Children's Society and with the girl's mother over the telephone and that a representative of the Boston society would arrive in New York either to-night or to-morrow morning to take her home. This arrangement was agreeable to Judge Hoyt and the court announced that the girl would be turned over to the Boston representative.

Mrs. A. H. Werner, mother of Gertrude Quimby, consented to-day to the appointment of a guardian for the girl who is held in New York by the Gerry Society. Miss Mary E. Barnett, agent of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, left this afternoon to bring the runaway beauty back.

Girl to Become a Ward.

Miss Barnett is the woman to whom Gertrude Quimby wrote just before she vanished from her home at No. 510 Audubon road, and it is Miss Barnett to whom the child will be given as a ward.

This information was given out by Mr. Hubbard of the S. P. C. A. following a long conference between officers of the society and Mrs. Werner.

A message had been sent to Deputy Superintendent of Police Watts, at the instance of A. H. Werner, the fifteen-year-old beauty's stepfather, asking the Gerry Society to hold her until some one should come to claim her. He supposed Mrs. Quimby Werner would go.

The girl, Deputy Watts said, is not to be taken before the Juvenile Court, because no copy of the warrant that was sworn out in the Roxbury court, charging her with being a stubborn child, had been forwarded to New York. She was taken into custody there, he explained, simply on his request.

May Open Prosecution.

Mrs. Werner appeared at police headquarters and had a long conference, after which it was announced that Mrs. Quimby-Werner would bring her daughter back with her and would not listen to her plans to go on the stage.

It was also intimated that after her return Mr. Werner would investigate more fully the reports that before she went away she was entertained at several hotels in this city. If these reports are verified, he said, he will take steps to prosecute the managers of the hotels.

Gertrude Quimby, according to New York dispatches, although much perturbed by her arrest, was just as confident to-day as ever that she would make a success on the stage. She hoped, she said, that her mother would consent to her taking a theatrical engagement, and she insisted that she could not be forced to return to live under the same roof with her stepfather.

"Rather than do that I'd kill myself," she repeated. "My own father died when I was four years old, and I have never known what it was to have a father. My stepfather never seemed to like me. He told my mother all sorts of stories about me and she believed them. I tried my hardest to make my mother believe and understand my side of things, but I could not make any impression on her. I grew to hate my stepfather until I felt that I could no longer live in the same house with him."

"I believe that I have some dramatic talent, a number of pretty good judges have told me so. So when I made up my mind that I could not stand my life at home any longer I decided to try for a position on the stage. I had $20 in cash and I did not dare attempt to pack up any clothes for fear my mother would see what I was planning to do and make it hard for me to leave home.

"I slipped away and went down to the Majestic Theatre, where I knew several people, but I found that it had closed on the Saturday before. The worst thing that has been said of me is connecting me with a comedian in a musical comedy company. I knew him only slightly, but when I told him that I wanted to come to

O, YOU EAST WIND! HOT WAVE BROKEN AS JOYS COME BACK

The Joys are in again. It was the East Wind that brought them to Boston early to-day. Don't you feel like tooting a horn or beating a drum to-day in the joy band? Sure. The hot wave is broken and the Glooms are completely routed.

URGE CATHEDRAL FOR UNITARIANS

The new cathedral for Unitarians at Washington, suggested by President Taft, was urged to-day at the annual meeting of the National Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christian Women in the South Congregational Church. Mrs. Robert S. Davis of New York, corresponding secretary, said: "The proposition of President Taft to establish a principal church or cathedral at Washington is one of the future efforts for this alliance to become interested in.

"During the past year ten new branches have been added to the alliance, and four of these have been started in New England. Six have been formed among the Icelanders."

Miss Emily A. Fifield of Boston, recording secretary, urged more work among college girls and the promotion of lending libraries.

"There are now 20,000 members in the alliance," said Mrs. Fifield. "By this means liberal Christianity is to be taught in the cities as well as in Japan and China. There is a great work to be done. We are not to be alarmed by Socialism; our part is to carry the banner of Unitarianism along."

Mrs. Lucia Clapp Noyes, treasurer, reported a balance of $7,651.05.

Socialism was discussed in the Second Church, Copley Square, by the ministers after a paper had been read by Professor N. P. Gilman of Meadville, Pa., on the subject. This meeting was carried on behind closed doors and no one but ministers were allowed to be present.

Greetings were given in Tremont Temple at the annual business meeting of the American Unitarian Association from Rev. Matthew R. Scott of Leeds, England, Thorbergur Thorvaldson of Iceland, Rev. David Utter of the Rocky Mountain Conference and Rev. John M. Lathrop of the Pacific Coast Conference.

Rev. Samuel M. Crothers of Cambridge will preach the annual sermon this evening in Tremont Temple.

Rev. Edward Hale of Chestnut Hill conducted the memorial service at King's Chapel and referred to the deaths of ten ministers during the year.

FOSS IS ASKED TO SIGN LABOR BILL

Governor Foss was asked to-day to approve of the fifty-four-bill in an official communication received from the Boston Patternmakers' Association. The enactment of this bill into law, the labor men say, is necessary if the health of the women and the child wage workers of the State is to be conserved. Three hundred patternmakers hold membership in this union, which is said to be one of the strongest and most thoroughly organized in Boston.

WALDO HEADS NEW YORK POLICE FORCE

NEW YORK, May 23.—Police Commissioner James C. Cropsey resigned to-day. Mayor Gaynor at once named Rylander Waldo, present fire commissioner, to be head of the police department. It had been rumored for several days that the Mayor would oust Cropsey, but be forestalled this action by resigning. A complete reorganization of the department to stamp out the crime wave is expected.

CAMBRIDGE MAN BITTEN BY DOG

A small black terrier dog bit Frank Creighton of No. 3½ Douglass street, Cambridge, several times on the right hand yesterday after Creighton had attempted to grab the animal by the neck. Sergeant Rowe of Station 2, Cambridge, shot the dog.

MRS. BULL STUDIED RAJA YOGI

ALFRED, Me., May 23.—The love element in the Hindu faith which got such a strong hold on the late Mrs. Ole Bull, and which it was declared to-day by Sherman L. Whipple, had undermined her intellect, was brought into the contest of her will, to-day, by the testimony of Nicola Roberta, a handsome young Italian, who was a pupil of Mrs. Bull and closely associated with her for several years before her death last January.

Roberta told of the stages of mental and physical cultivation that the Raja Yogi, or Hindu philosophy, required. He said that Mrs. Bull had finally reached the Bhakti Yogi stage—a stage in which all of the believers were gods.

"What is the Bhakti stage?" asked Mr. Whipple?

Love Is the Agent.

"It is the attainment of superconsciousness through love," replied Roberta. "Mrs. Bull said that she was naturally a Bhakti Yogi."

Q.—Did Mrs. Bull ever say anything about love or Bhakti in relation to personal duty? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did she say? A.—I would rather not tell it in court.

"I want to say at this time," put in Mr. Whipple, "that I shall later have a great deal of evidence about this phase of the Hindu practice to put in."

Q.—Did Mrs. Bull give you a book on love? A.—Yes, she gave me a book which she said was personal. She said that her life was mapped out in it. She told me that the book would give me a knowledge of love.

Q.—Did she tell you about her first meeting with Ole Bull and the circumstances connected with her marriage and of her life with him? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you would rather not tell this in public? A.—I'd rather not.

Bad Result on Health.

Q.—What was the effect of the teaching on you? A.—My health became poor. I looked at the world in an abnormal way and was impracticable.

Just before giving this testimony Roberta told how a student reached the superconscious state, one of the highest stages of Raja Yogi.

"The kundalina (substance at base of spine) awakens. The power begins to ascend to the brain. It passes up the sussuma canal and overcomes the subtle elements of nature. If you can make the current pass through the canal into the brain you have solved the problem of freeing the mind from matter.

Roberta testified that Mrs. Bull told him that the mysterious "sussuma canal" was closed in ordinary persons. Only Yogi have it opened. This is the only way to obtain divine wisdom.

"In the physical exercises," said Roberta, "you have your body straight, breathe deeply and speak some sacred word such as 'oom,' and then draw a 'higher' breath and go on. This is done in the morning and evening and finally there is no need to go to the book for knowledge as your mind becomes a book containing profound knowledge.

One of the courses of treatment through which Mrs. Bull and other followers of the Raja Yogi had to go was described as follows:

"The Yogi (student) must go through physical and mental exercise every day until the highest stages are reached. He must find a posture in which he can remain long. This posture will vary with the individual, but later in the stages there will be a physical action, most of which will lie along the spinal column.

"It is important to keep the spine free, holding the head, neck and spine in a straight line."

Roberto, in explaining some of the exercises through which they went, said:

"We sat in a line or in a circle and breathed deeply. We tried to breathe entirely through the left nostril and concentrated on it until we felt the breath going way down to kindalina. (Base of spine)."

"I suppose," remarked Judge Hobbs dryly, "that means simply inflating the lungs."

"Oh, no," replied Lawyer Whipple. "it is a much more mystic process than that."

HOW MRS. OLE BULL BECAME AN ADEPT IN HINDOO FAITH

"We sat in a line or in a circle and breathed deeply. We tried to breathe entirely through the left nostril and concentrated on it until we felt the breath going way down to kindalina (base of spine)."—Nicola Robele, formerly a barber in Somerville, who testified at the Bull will case trial how he studied Hinduism with Mrs. Bull.

"I suppose," remarked Judge Hobbs dryly, "that means simply inflating the lungs."

"Oh, no," replied Lawyer Whipple, "it is a much more mystic process than that."

AUTO CASE LOST BY MRS. GLOVER

Judge Enos T. Luce of the Waltham District Court to-day found Louis G. Burnham not guilty of the charge of larceny of an automobile tire and tools valued at $60, as charged by Lillian M. Glover, widow of Clarence F. Glover, who was killed in his laundry and for whose murder Hattie Le Blanc was placed on trial for her life. Burnham claimed he had paid Mrs. Glover $20 for it.

KNICKERBOCKER BANKER IS HELD

NEW YORK, May 23.—T. Atherton Black, treasurer of the Knickerbocker Savings and Loan Company, was arrested on a bench warrant, charging grand larceny, and locked up in police headquarters, early to-day.

The affairs of the company are under investigation by the district attorney, who said that defalcations amounting to upward of $15,000 were alleged to have been found thus far, and the Grand Jury was still working on the case.

The company's office was closed last Saturday by the State Banking Department.

COMMITS SUICIDE NEAR WIFE'S GRAVE

WINSTED, Ct., May 23.—Charles J. Allen, aged sixty, was found dead near his wife's grave in Forest View Cemetery to-day. Grasped in one hand was the photograph of his wife who died four years ago. He had taken the contents of a four-ounce bottle of carbolic acid and thrown the bottle as far as he could. It was picked up fifty feet from where his body lay. He had recently been notified that he had fallen heir to an estate in England, but it is believed that the claim had proved baseless. He had recently returned from a visit to Meriden.

WEIL IS ARRAIGNED; BAIL IS INCREASED

Victor M. Weil, the stock company promoter who was indicted upon the charge that he has used the mails in a scheme to defraud, was arraigned before Judge Dodge in the United States District Court to-day and pleaded not guilty. His bail was increased from $3,000 to $5,000. His trial will take place in the Fall.

NEW YORK SWELTERS DURING HOT WAVE

NEW YORK, May 23.—The entire population of Greater New York, nearly 5,000,000 persons, sweltered and panted to-day while a burning sun poured down its rays and scattered its heat impartially among palatial homes and East Side tenements. At 9:30 o'clock the record at the weather bureau showed a temperature of 82 degrees, and Forecaster Scarr predicted that all heat records for a decade would be broken.

RICHEYS LOSE L SUIT.

In the civil session of the Norfolk Superior Court to-day, before Judge Waite, a verdict in favor of the defendant was returned in suits of Mrs. Letitia E. Richey of Brookline, and her husband against the Boston Elevated. Mrs. Richey had brought suit for $2,000 for injuries sustained on July 29, 1909, when she was thrown to the ground by the sudden starting of a car on Harvard street, Brookline, from which she was alighting. Her husband brought suit for a like amount for "loss of comfort, society and benefit of wife."

D. A. HALL ENDS LIFE WITH SHOT

Dexter Almy Hall, a wealthy retired real estate dealer, was found to-day on the Charles River Esplanade at Gloucester street, dead from a bullet that had been fired into his mouth and had penetrated his brain. A revolver lay under him.

"Some day I shall kill myself," he had announced to his bride while they were still on their honeymoon thirteen years ago. Every day during that thirteen years the fear that the irrepressible impulse of self-destruction might triumph haunted her, and although she watched and guarded him tenderly that fear lay ever over them. Consequently, when a policeman got out to No. 1090 Beacon street, Brookline, where the Halls had a luxurious apartment, she knew instinctively the message he had to deliver.

At times, she said, there were brief periods in which it was possible, almost, to forget that the destroying mania lurked in her husband's mind, but it was never absent long. Her husband had everything to live for, with money enough to provide for every possible need or desire. But always there was a mysterious, insistent death-impulse to be combatted. And on April 9 last, returning to the apartment, she found him stretched out senseless in the bathroom with every gas jet open.

Mania for Suicide.

She saved him then by prompt work, but the suicidal mania was getting beyond her control and on the advice of their physician she sent her husband to a hospital in West Newton.

The constant fear that he would make away with himself worried Mrs. Hall so much that she engaged an attendant, who was instructed never to let the patient out of his sight.

Yesterday Mr. Hall and his attendant went out along the Charles River and when they got to Waltham Hall said casually that he would go into the Waltham watch factory and leave his watch to be repaired.

"You wait out here a moment," he said. "I'll be right out."

Eludes the Attendant.

That was the last time the attendants saw him alive, for he slipped out another door and was nowhere to be found when the attendant went into look for him.

The man hurried back to the hospital and Mrs. Hall was told by telephone. She and two women friends started quietly to hunt for the missing husband. Late at night they had no word from him and they decided to stay up all night. It was after 6 a. m. when the door bell rang and the dreaded but not unexpected news was brought to Mrs. Hall.

In the meantime the policeman who found the body, Kenneth Chisholm of the Metropolitan police, had sent it to the North Grove street morgue in order that Medical Examiner Magrath might make an examination.

Identification was made through an address found on the dead man. It said: "Reeves, No. 152 West Newton street." There was found Mrs. Annie M. Reeves, who said that she had had known Hall for forty years and that his wife had stayed frequently at her house while he was in the hospital. She, too, guessed at once what was the matter, for her daughter was one of the friends who kept vigil last night with Mrs. Hall.

Hall had not been engaged in business for many years. He was sixty-eight years old and the son of Edward W. and Louise Barrett Hall. From his father he inherited a large fortune. Mrs. Hall, who is his second wife, was twenty-five years his junior. Mrs. Hall was Miss Fannie S. Green of Philadelphia.

Was Home-Loving Man.

"He had everything to live for. Lovely home, and everything money could buy," said Mrs. Hall to-day. His friends were all devoted to him. He never did any work, except to care for the real estate left by his father. He was a home loving man, very conservative and inclined not to make new friends.

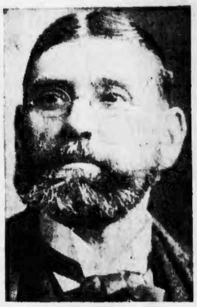
DEXTER A. HALL, WHO ENDED LIFE WITH REVOLVER



CUSTOM HOUSE CLERK SUICIDE

After serving the government for twenty-three years with faithful, mechanical regularity as a file clerk, Charles F. Whidden went down into the basement of the temporary United States Custom House in Tremont street to-day and shot himself in the right breast.

He died on the way to the Grace Hospital without recovering consciousness.

He had been despondent of late because he was unable to pay off a mortgage on the home occupied by himself and his wife, at No. 589 Washington street, Braintree.

He told his financial troubles to Mr. Liefert, head of the naval department in the Custom House. He asked for a raise in pay a few months ago. His long service, steady habits and good work counted in his favor. The increase was granted.

Second Raise Denied.

A few weeks ago his superiors were surprised to receive from him a request for another raise. This was denied.

Whidden brooded over this and over his continued financial troubles, which his first raise had evidently failed to mend. He brought a revolver to his work to-day. He went down into the file room in the basement, which he could do without attracting attention as his duties often called him there. He knew he would be alone in that part of the big building. With one straight shot the unhappy clerk ended his life.

So far as known this is the first suicide in the Boston customs service.

Charles F. Whidden was fifty-nine years old. He came to Boston from Canterbury, N. H. He was appointed to the United States customs service at this port as a file clerk in 1888. For over twenty years he worked in the old Customs building in State street, popularly known as "The Old Stone Fort."

He was as regular as a clock, methodical, quiet and unobtrusive. He was well esteemed among his fellow clerks. That he had the respect and approval of his superiors was shown when his request for a raise a few months ago was readily granted. That his second raise did not come was not regarded as any reflection on his work. It would have been unusual for a man in a routine position to have been granted a second increase in so short a time.

Shot Tells of Tragedy.

When Whidden came in from Braintree to-day he seemed the same as usual, allowing for the preoccupation and low spirit which had been noticed on him of late.

The first known of the suicide was when occupants of the first floor offices heard the report of a shot from the basement. Those first down the stairway found Whidden unconscious on the file room floor, with a bullet in his right breast and a smoking revolver near his right hand.

He was hurried to the Grace Hospital but expired on the way. He had aimed with the deliberate accuracy that characterized his daily work.

Edwin U. Curtis, collector of the port, was notified and made arrangements to have the widow informed of the tragedy in her family.

When news of the suicide spread among the men and women clerks of the building much sorrow was expressed. The long years of service and the faithful work of the dead man were recalled, with sympathy for the widow in the Braintree home.

TEACHERS' AND FENS VETOES

Governor Foss vetoed the Boston teachers' salary bill and the Boylston street extension bill to-day before he left for New York.

The vetoes were sent to the house, each with an accompanying message.

Regarding the teachers' salary bill, the Governor informed the Legislature that he objected to the "mandatory clause" relating to a certain class of teachers.

His sole reason for vetoing the Boylston street extension bill is because he believes that he is disqualified from legislating in the matter at all because he acquired an interest several years ago, which he still holds, in property affected by the bill. He says this leaves him no alternative but to veto the measure.

The veto of the Boylston street extension bill removes all danger of the John Boyle O'Reilly memorial being removed from its present location.

Regarding the Boston teachers' salary bill the Governor's veto message to the Legislature reads:

Teachers' Bill Veto.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives:

Herewith I return an act relative to appropriations for the support of the public schols of the City of Boston which I cannot approve for the reason that Section 2 of the act makes mandatory the increase of salary of a certain class of teachers.

The question at issue is not whether the salaries of teachers shall be increased. Every one agrees that such increase, to correspond with the increased cost of living, should be made at once. The question is merely whether the Legislature should incorporate in the bill authorizing increased salaries a provision making it compulsory upon the School Committee of Boston to spend a certain fixed proportion of its appropriations for increasing the salaries of a particular class of teachers. This provision is an unwarranted interference by the Legislature with a question which the citizens of Boston through the Boston School Committee are competent to decide for themselves, and should decide for themselves.

The citizens of Boston elect a School Committee which has power to determine the scale of salaries. If that committee does not perform satisfactorily its duties, the remedy lies with the citizens of Boston and not in an appeal to the Legislature. If the Legislature can rightfully control the administration of the Boston schools in this particular, it is difficult to see what other matters cannot and should not be taken from the control of the people of Boston and vested in the Commonwealth.

Sees Unwisdom in Act.

For the Legislature to control in this matter the School Committee elected by the citizens of Boston would be particularly unwise, because such action would lower the morale of the teaching staff and seriously impair the discipline of the schools. It would be followed by appeals from other classes of teachers to the Legislature, with a consequent decline in the value and effectiveness of the Boston School Committee.

The matter is one which does not concern the citizens of Boston alone, for the precedent it sets effects the principle of home rule in every city and town in the Commonwealth.

It would be a matter of regret if a single unwise clause, designed to benefit a particular class of deserving teachers, should prevent proper provisions being made this year for the increase of the salaries of all classes of teachers who, in the judgment of the school committee, deserve such an increase. I therefore recommend that a law be enacted which will place at the disposal of the school committee a sum sufficient for this purpose. It would be desirable to include in such an act provision for the objects included in section 1 of the act I return without my approval, and I recommend that such action be taken.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

HOLD BOY IN FIREBUG HUNT

The police are now convinced that the mysterious firebugs who have spread terror in the tenement district of the North End during the past few weeks are boys, whose object in setting fires has been their desire for excitement. Luciano Amartinio, a ten-year-old boy of No. 372 Hanover street, is being held pending further investigation, and is said to have confessed that he was about to set a fire when he was arrested.

WOMAN IS SUED FOR STOCK GIFT

Mrs. Isabel Finch Clark of Nantucket is charged with exerting undue influence over the late George A. Sawyer of Boston, and with inducing the old man to turn over to her two promissory notes valued at $27,000, and a large number of shares and capital stock in the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, American Sugar Refining Company, Reece Button Hole Machinery Company, Boston Parcel Delivery Company and Van Kannel Revolving Door Company.

The charges are made in a bill in equity filed to-day by Fred R. Sawyer, executor of George A. Sawyer's will. A temporary injunction has been issued by the court restraining Mrs. Clark from disposing of the stocks, notes and securities until further order of the court, and also restraining the various concerns and above named corporations from turning over to her any of the stocks or paying her any dividends thereon.

Richard H. Stearns of Boston, Frank W. Stearns and Atherton Clark of Newton and Walter B. Mossman of Brookline are restrained from paying Mrs. Clark on the notes.

MR. TAFT OPENS NEW LIBRARY

NEW YORK, May 23.—With President Taft, Governor Dix and Mayor Gaynor participating in the ceremonies, New York's new $10,000,000 library was opened to-day. The entire afternoon was given over to the festivities, which included a luncheon, a reception, inspection of the library and the formal opening of the doors.

Fifteen thousand invitations had been sent out and a squadron of 500 mounted police were drawn up in Fifth avenue and in Forty-second street to handle the crowds and prevent any jam about President Taft upon his arrival from Washington.

The library is the largest, most costly and one of the most beautiful buildings of its kind in the world. It is bigger than the Congressional Library at Washington, holding shelf room for 3,500,000 volumes and floor space of 375,000 square feet against the 326,000 square feet of the Congressional Library. The land upon which the structure stands is valued at $20,000,000.

2 DOWNTOWN STORES LOOTED

Two burglaries, one particularly bold, were committed in the downtown section early to-day, more than $200 in cash and jewelry being stolen.

The more daring burglary was in the store of the New England Jewelry Company at No. 305 Washington street, of which K. Bernstan is proprietor. This store is on the west side of Washington street, opposite the Old South Church, where electric lights illuminate the street all night.

The burglar or burglars forced the front door. As the store is on the ground floor this was an audacious trick in itself.

The other burglary was at the liquor store of J. H. McGrady, No. 308 Atlantic avenue. The front door was forced, the cash drawer opened and $10 taken. The police think the same party committed both.

ENG SAY KONG NOW MRS. WING

Accompanied by the snap of Chinese firecrackers, the whirr of rockets and the tom-tom of a Chinese orchestra, Soo Hoo Wing, one of Boston Chinatown's youngest merchants, to-day took for his bride Eng Say Kong, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Eng Foon Foo, a Chinese merchant of Mott street, New York. The marriage ceremony took place this afternoon at Soo Hoo's home at No. 23 Oxford street, and is to be followed by feasts throughout Chinatown and fireworks this evening. Although the ceremony itself took the Christian form with a Christian clergyman officiating, the reception and banquets are to be essentially Chinese.

Eng Say, accompanied by her parents, arrived in Boston, was driven to the bridegroom's home. With them were Mrs. Wyllie Wing of No. 10 Mott street, and Cornelius Haggerty of Philadelphia, bridesmaid and best man respectively. Everett Flint Damon, attorney, of this city was also a best man.

WILL ENFORCE FIREWORKS LAW

Two thousand copies of the regulations pertaining to the sale of fireworks are being printed by order of the State police and are to be distributed all over Massachusetts to dealers. Fire Marshal George C. Neal this year is determined to reduce the fatalities, injuries and fires from fireworks to the greatest minimum in the history of the Commonwealth. A number of new regulations pertaining to the transportation, storage and sale of fireworks and explosives are to be enforced.

BATS BATTLE, RATTLE ACTORS

BENNINGTON, Vt., May 23.—At the performance of James K. Hackett in "The King's Game" at the Bennington Opera House there was an added feature which was cast thus:

"Extra Villains—Two Bats."

Played according to Hoyle, "The King's Game" never allowed for a brace of bats. The animals interfered with the performance and worried the audience, especially when Mr. Hackett had the curtain rung down at one time with the cheerful announcement that he was afraid the bats would get into the hair of some of the women in the audience.

Bennington women will put anything in their wool that any other female does, including puffs and rats. But they stop at bats.

"The King's Game" calls for a dark stage much of the time. The bats liked the gloom. They shunned the light of the house proper when there was a lovely dark stage for them. Hence they circled mostly from wing to wing flitting into the actors' faces and interfering with the lines.

Before the performance was near its end Mr. Hackett called for a final curtain on account of the bats. The audience was willing to go rather than sit in a "batty" house. After the curtain came down and the stage lights were switched on the bats flew into the auditorium. At last accounts the stage hands were on the bat trail with indifferent success.

COMMITTEE FOR A MILK BOARD

The Committee on Agriculture today voted to favorably report a bill to create a State Milk Board of five members, to have full supervision over the milk industry in the State.

Two of the members are to be chosen by the State Board of Agriculture, two by the State Board of Health and the fifth member by the other four selected. Each member of the board is to receive such compensation as shall be fixed by the Governor and Council.

The board is to be authorized "to make rules and regulations regarding the transportation, keeping, sale and delivery of milk, and the production of milk intended for sale, and may issue permits for the transportation, sale and delivery of milk, and for the production and keeping of milk intended for sale, and may revoke the same, and may delegate to any municipal board or officer authority to grant and to revoke such permits, upon such terms and under such conditions as the State Milk Board may from time to time determine, and may prohibit, and may authorize any municipal officer to prohibit the sale, transportation or delivery of milk, and the production and keeping of milk intended for sale ———."

Regulations made by the board are made enforceable by municipal boards of health, and whenever the State Board finds it necessary to take over to itself the work which it has delegated to any local board, it may levy the expense thereof upon such city or town. To carry out the provisions of the act $25,000 is appropriated.

DIPLOMATS TO SUMMER HERE

Not only will New England be the political capital of the United States this Summer but it will also be the diplomatic capital, as a majority of the embassies and legations will be transferred from Washington to Massachusetts and Maine in the course of the next few weeks.

The British Embassy will go to Seal Harbor and have as near neighbors at Bar Harbor the Austrian Embassy and the Venezuelan, Dutch and Greek Legations. At Manchester will be the French, German, Russian and Italian embassies, at Magnolia will be the Mexican Embassy, at Gloucester will be the Persian and Siamese Legations.

MAJOR BUTT IS BUYING QUILTS

ATLANTA, May 23.—Major Archibald Willingham de Graffenreid Clavering Butt, A. Q. M., U. S. A., and military aide to President Taft, has caused the greatest boom in home-made quilts known in Georgia since the war.

Several days ago Major Butt, who is building a fine house in Washington—and by the way, Major Butt is a dashing bachelor—wrote to his good friend, Albert Howell, to find and purchase for him two of the finest old-fashioned quilts that could be found in all Georgia.

Mr. Howell advertised widely throughout the State—somewhat puzzled, it must be admitted, to know why a bachelor was building such a big house and seeking such fine quilts—and to-day 278 old-fashioned "befo'-de-wah" quilts filled his office.

VIRA STOWE TO BE JUNE BRIDE

It was Cupid who lured Miss Frost Stowe, one of the most accomplished girls in Newton, from the stage, and now it is announced that on Thursday, June 1, she will become the bride of Walton H. Marshall, the manager of the New Vanderbilt Hotel in New York.

Her friends think they now have solved the secret of why Miss Stowe, with all her dramatic talent, abandoned the stage. She has appeared in support of such stars as Wilton Lackaye and Ethel Barrymore, and had such pronounced gifts for a footlight career that she had attracted the attention of such an astute manager as Charles Dillingham.

Were Deaf—Now Hear

Remarkable Experience of Those Dead to the World of Sound With a New Treatment for Deafness That Is Wonderfully Efficient. A Multitude of Witnesses.

DISCHARGING EARS, AND NOISES

Unable to get employment that she liked on account of being deaf, disheartened and discouraged from repeated failures to gain relief from hospitals and specialists, Miss Mildred Burgess, who resides at 28 Pearl st., South Framingham, yielded, after a long siege, to her mother's importunities and had the Osmo-Chemic Physicians treat her for deafness. Regarding her experience she said to the writer: "Seventeen years I had been deaf in my right ear. I could hear nothing with it. There was an offensive discharge and those terrible noises that almost drove me to distraction. My left ear failed gradually and I could see nothing before me but total deafness. I was thoroughly discouraged, as everything seemed to fail that I tried for relief, and when I did not notice any improvement in the first few treatments I received from the Osmo-Chemic Physicians I would have discontinued them, only my mother urged and persuaded me to continue. So glad I am that I followed her advice. The Osmo-Chemic Physicians stopped the discharge and ringing noises in my ears and I hear almost perfectly again."

Miss Ida Nelson resides at No. 20 Crescent st., Waltham. She says: "I had been troubled with catarrh ever since I was 5 years old; adenoids and enlarged tonsils, accompanied with deafness. I was operated upon and the adenoids and tonsils removed, but my catarrhal trouble was not any better than before. My aunt had been successfully treated by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, as well as my cousin, Dagmar Kleist of 1060 Tremont st., Boston, who was cured of Heart Disease. They advised me to go to them for treatment. I took their advice, with the result that the Osmo-Chemic Physicians cured me of Catarrhal Bronchitis, and I hear as well as ever I did."

LAST DAYS—ONE MONTH FREE

The Osmo-Chemic Physicians, in order to demonstrate their skill in the cure of Deafness by the New Discovery, will give all patients who are deaf, who begin or renew treatment on or before May 31st, one month's treatment, including all medicine, ABSOLUTELY FREE. Only 9 days remain.

WERE DEAF—NOW HEAR

Miss Frances Bernard, at No. 30 St. Cecilia st., Boston, says: "I was almost totally deaf in my right ear. Ringing, buzzing noises annoyed me greatly. The Osmo-Chemic Physicians treated me. And as a result the ringing, buzzing noises are gone from my ears, and I hear perfectly again in my right ear, which I thought was lost to me forever."

Mr. Jacob B. Sullam, South Hanson, Mass., says: "I had been almost totally deaf in my left ear since 1865, in my right ear for the last four years. The Osmo-Chemic Physicians treated me. Now I can hear a clock tick fifteen feet from me."

Mr. F. E. Bacon, No. 4 Rock st., Roxbury, says: "I had been totally deaf in my right ear. The Osmo-Chemic Physicians cured me."

Miss Nellie M. Brown, 33 Aberdeen ave., Cambridge, says: "I was very deaf. I was treated by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and I can hear again as well as I ever did."

Miss Nellie Donovan, 18 High st., Beverly: "I was deaf. Since the Osmo-Chemic Physicians treated me, my hearing has returned."

Mrs. Margaret Kimball, 121 Oliver st., Linden: "I could not hear a sound with my left ear. Since the Osmo-Chemic Physicians treated me I can hear a watch tick."

Mrs. Fannie Record, 15 Vancouver st., Boston: "I was practically stone deaf in both ears. Since the Osmo-Chemic Physicians treated me I can hear and understand a lecture."

Mrs. C. S. Barker, 236 Spring st., Medford, Mass.: "I was practically stone deaf in both ears. Since the Osmo-Chemic Physicians treated me I hear perfectly again."

OSMO-CHEMIC SYSTEM OF MEDICINE

J. L. Plunket, M. D., Chief Consulting Physician. Permanent offices, Suite 8, 9, 10, entrance No. 18 Boylston st., Boston. Office hours 10 a. m. to 12 m., 2 to 4 and 6 to 8 p. m. daily. Closed Sundays.

TESTIMONIAL TO PRELATE

The second day of the great testimonial to the venerable Rt. Rev. Monsignor Denis O'Callaghan, who has just completed his forty-third year as pastor of St. Augustine's parish, South Boston, will be observed to-night in the School Hall in E street.

Addresses will be made by laymen as well as churchmen who have been interested in the career of the beloved prelate. The first day of the reunion and testimonial which was observed last night was a success far in excess of the most optimistic expectations. Upwards of 5,000 former and present parishioners attended, many of them from great distances, to pay homage to their spiritual advisor.

The Mayor Sings.

Mayor Fitzgerald, after giving three cheers for Monsignor O'Callaghan, sang "Sweet Adeline." The Mayor also delivered an address earlier in the evening. He said it was his opinion that the two men who have done more for the cause of Erin and home rule for the Irish people were Monsignor O'Callaghan and John O'Callaghan of this city.

Although the churchman hardly needed an introduction he was announced by Charles S. O'Connor. So great was the applause that it was fully five minutes before Monsignor O'Callaghan could begin to speak. He thanked those present for the testimonial they had tendered him and said he felt proud that he was so well beloved by his people. From 10 o'clock until midnight an entertainment and concert was enjoyed.

Old Folks Dance.

A feature of the evening was a dance, indulged in by the old folks present. Useful and fancy articles were on sale by the women of the parish. The articles were the handiwork of the women and girls of the parish, and were tastefully arranged on five tables.

William C. Wall had charge of the dancing, assisted by John J. Lydon, John T. Donahue, Edward G. Morris, John L. Monahan, Peter F. McNiff and William J. Day.

Among the guests were Senator James F. Powers, Senator M. J. Murray, Commissioner James A. Gallivan, Representative Francis Colpoys, P. H. O'Connor, James F. Creed, John J. Lydon, Michael J. Reidy and Daniel C. McIsaac.

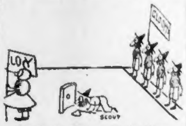
NIMS, WAR VETERAN, DEAD IN 92D YEAR

Ormond F. Nims, commander of the famous Nims Battery, and a noted veteran of the Civil War, died at his home, No. 42 Blossom street, in his ninety-second year, early today. For fifty-two years he had conducted a drug-store at No. 134 Cambridge street, retiring about a year ago. He was born Aug. 30, 1819, in Sullivan, N. H. In 1854, with Major Moses G. Cobb he organized the famous Boston Light Artillery, in which he was made orderly sergeant. Three years later he was made lieutenant, then commander, and finally in 1858 was created a major of artillery. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was given command of the famous Nims battery and was attached to the Gulf Department.

BARS PUT UP ON ELOPERS

FITCHBURG, May 23.—City Clerk Walter A. Davis has put the "gloom" on Dan Cupid's elopement schemes, so far as Nashua, N. H., is concerned.

Nashua, N. H., has been the favorite point for secret marriages, now that Rhode Island is spoiled as a Gretna Green by the 1911 Rhode Island law about one week being necessary between license and ceremony. Since "Little Rhody" passed that law all elopements have led to Nashua.



Mr. Davis Started All the Woe.

Couples from Fitchburg and other places in this State have slipped over the line to Nashua, become married and slipped back without the news getting out here until they were ready.

No more secrecy now.

City Clerk Davis has gone "in cahoots" with City Clerk Arthur L. Cyr of Nashua. Mr. Cyr agrees to forward all marriage records to Fitchburg in which either party comes from this city.

The first batch of these announcements numbered eighteen. Only two had been given out here. The other sixteen were surprises. In every case one or both of the principals are Fitchburg people.

Love Secrets are Put to Flight.

Young people say that Nashua will lose business in marriage licenses by this arrangement; also that City Clerk Davis has no romance in his soul.

SOLD HORSE THAT HE "SHOT AT SUNRISE"

Horses "shot at sunrise," but which were later seen drawing ploughs in Maine potato fields or enjoying an old age frisk in Maine pastures, caused James T. Smith, formerly an employe of the S. S. Pierce Company, to be sentenced in the Superior Criminal Court by Judge Stevens to Deer Island for a year. When Smith was manager of the stables of the S. S. Pierce Company he had the disposal of old horses, old wagons and old harness. If he could not sell the horses, he was authorized to shoot them. In several cases, it was charged, he sold horses to Maine farmers and told his employers that he had shot them at sunrise.

ARRAIGNED FOR SHOOTING TWO

Arthur L. Boardman, accused of killing Arthur Monroe, a nineteen-year-old Boston Elevated conductor, and John Murray, eighteen, during a dispute over a 5-cent box of cigarettes in his store at No. 515 Main street, Charlestown, was arraigned to-day in the Charlestown Court. He was held without bail for a further hearing Friday.

The prisoner, a rather stout little man of about fifty, seemed not in the least disturbed by the charge against him and when the charge of murder was read and he was asked the usual question he looked straight at the judge and said, clearly and firmly as if he were answering a casual question, "Not guilty!"

Prisoner Is Calm.

Boardman was taken into the dock early and he sat there peering over the rail as the other prisoners were arraigned on petty charges. There was not a trace of nervousness in his manner and he returned glance for glance with the curious spectators in the courtroom. He looked rather bedraggled without collar and necktie after a night in a cell, but he gave no indication of any feeling of shame or remorse or discomfort.

Finally the grist of the minor cases was disposed of, and Clerk James J. Mullen called: "Arthur L. Boardman." At a nod from his counsel, Jesse W. Morton, who was of counsel for Hattie Le Blanc in her trial for the murder of Clarence Glover, Boardman stood up. He was thoroughly alert and thoroughly at his ease. He listened attentively to the reading of the charge and answered quickly the single question as to his guilt.

He looked as if he was going to say more, but Attorney Morton interposed and had a whispered conversation with the judge, the purport of which was evidently that more time was necessary to prepare the case. Boardman remained standing, looking curiously out among the spectators, as if for some face he knew. But there was no one of his acquaintance, evidently, and there was not a woman in the court room.

Witnesses on Hand.

When the colloquy between judge and counsel ended, Judge Bragg announced that a continuance had been granted and Boardman was led out of the dock and taken to the Charles Street Jail.

The police had been ready to go on with the case, for they had in court the four young men who were rounded up immediately after the shooting as witnesses, as well as Patrolman Meehan, who arrested Boardman with the revolver in his hand, and Patrolman Crowley, who was with Monroe when he died.

JOHN P. GREEN WILL HEAD JUNE 17 PARADE

John P. Green, thirty-two, of No. 95 Russell street, Charlestown, has been chosen chief marshal of the parade to be held in Charlestown, June 17. The selection of Mr. Green was made by the Bunker Hill Day Committee of the City Council, consisting of Councilors McDonald, Ballantyne, Buckley and Curley. Mr. Green, who is the son of ex-Representative Thomas H. Green and brother of Representative James I. Green, is United States assistant weigher at the Custom House. He is also past grand knight of Bunker Hill Council.

INVESTIGATE TROLLEY CRASH

An investigation is being made to-day to place responsibility for the collision of a City Point-bound trolley and a heavy electric coal car at the corner of Broadway Extension and Harrison avenue, which resulted in eight women and six men being injured.

The passenger car was bound from Dudley street to City Point in charge of Conductor Frank J. Moore and Motorman Coyne. The coal car was empty and proceeding north along Harrison avenue.

Witnesses say that Motorman Coyne had received the signal from the motorman of the coal car to proceed. As he started his car, it is reported, the coal car slid and crashed into the passenger electric. There were eighteen passengers, most of whom were bound for Marine Park. Some of them were thrown into the street.

DE LUXE BRINGS BUNCH OF DIMPLED KNEES (BARE) TO TOWN

season of bare legs in the drama ed. It will be recalled that a when "Up and Down Broadway" th as a June theatrical blossom, e worn plain and simple for the rt—as if the fashion went hand with the climbing temperature. comes "Dr. De Luxe" as a study manicured and polished to the last All of this at the Colonial The- st evening exposed the fact that kless Summer season in dramatic inment is at the back door.

e "Dr. De Luxe" can lay no great o high quality, it supplied last even- audience with something to gaze which included, of course, the ec- Mr. Ralph Herz, whose playfulness e stage led him into the many amus- complications that newly-made stars ikely to find upon their first venture large type.

Elected on First Ballot.

Herz handled himself well, how- , and if you can believe all that was pressed by a most friendly audience was elected to success on the first bal- . Mr. Herz was politely amusing with- t exerting himself, and he is entitled both congratulations and reward for making anyone laugh in the city's stifling atmosphere.

As if the sensation provided by the undraped legs of the "ponies" was hardly enough for the demand in hot weather, "Dr. De Luxe" drifted into window smashing, which made good business for the glazier. This eruption came during "The Harum Scarum" number, when the sprightly "ponies" took to stone throwing in the court yard of a New York apartment house. The result was surprising and brought out a loud demand for encores. But they were missing—every window in the house fell at the first volley.

The anarchistic tendencies of our cultured Boston audiences was thoroughly exposed in this manifest greed for destruction. This number was the hit of the evening, and Miss Jeanette Childs, who led the window smashing brigade, proved herself a peerless commander. She was as frisky as a kitten.

Yes, There's Some Melody.

"Dr. De Luxe" is the product of those prolific musical comedy twins, Otto Hauerbach and Karl Hoschna, who hold the season's record in play making. While Mr. Hoschna's music was lacking in the popular melodies that have made some of his earlier compositions conspicuous, he managed to inject agreeable melody into his work at intervals.

It would be impossible to attempt to explain the complications of Mr. Hauerbach's book, but it may be said that Mr. Herz, as Dr. De Luxe, spent the evening in an effort to straighten out his identity, which was lost at the rise of the curtain. The novelty of the first act was found in the dogs that were brought to Dr. De Paw's institute for treatment. It took rank with the animal acts so familiar in vaudeville circles.

The preponderence of grotesque comedy situations and the great variety of novelties make "Dr. De Luxe" especially inviting as a Summer entertainment. It moves quickly at all times and imposes no severe task upon the playgoer's intelligence. You can at least enjoy the window smashing, even if you do close your eyes to the dimples in the double row of naked knees.

Keith's.

With Irene Franklin, one of the most versatile comediennes on the vaudeville stage as the principal headliner at Keith's this week, the program is one of the best of the season at this popular vaudeville house.

Miss Franklin was called upon to sing "Redhead," one of her former successes, several times. Not only is she a clever artist, but her choice of songs is very good. The "Chambermaid" and "The Girl From Childs," proved big hits. The singer showed her dramatic ability in the more serious song, "I'm Bringing Up the Family."

Anton Torrelli, basso of the Boston Opera Company, made his debut on the vaudeville stage and made a decided hit. His selections were given with great skill and were loudly applauded.

Stepp, Mehlinger and King, three Western boys, made their bow in Boston in a unique act. This act consists of impersonations, songs and piano playing. J. C. Nugent, well known to vaudeville patrons, is also on the bill with his company, playing in the act, "The Squarer," which tells of the adventures of a good-natured club man who endeavors to get a friend out of a scrape, but in his endeavor incurs the displeasure of the latter's wife.

Other features on the bill are Philip LaCroix, juggler; Gordon brothers, dancers; LaToy brothers, acrobats, and Hill and Sylvani, balancers.

Castle Square.

Twelve persistent curtain calls were given to the principals of the John Craig stock company at the close of the third act of "The Rivals" at the Castle Square Theatre last evening.

John Craig as Captain Jack Absolute, Donald Meek as Bob Acres and Mary Young as Lydia Languish received such a greeting that in addition to being called before the curtain they had to make individual speeches before the play could proceed.

Mr. Meek, who has been absent from the company for several months, especially was singled out for marks of approval. Mary Young, who has been away for a brief period, was the recipient of several beautiful flower remembrances, and Gertrude Binley was included in the list. It was in truth a remarkable evidence of good will, even for a Castle Square audience.

Majestic.

Lindsay Morison's stock company at the Majestic Theatre clearly demonstrated last night that "The Man of the Hour" retains a hold on the theatregoing public. The piece was not only well received by the public, but it was well played.

Wilson Melrose in the principal role of Alwyn Bennett, the young mayor who cannot be bribed, was cast in a most congenial character. He played it with virility that added greatly to the play. Especially good were his scenes with the domineering Horrigan and the gentle Dallas Wainwright.

Miss Eleanor Gordon as Dallas Wainwright was at once vivacious and gentle in the opening acts and from them the transition to the emotional woman of beautiful character in the closing acts was well done.

Norumbega Park.

The vaudeville season at Norumbega Park opened yesterday with six big acts in the open air theatre. Few outdoor theatres in the country have more beautiful surroundings than that at Norumbega, all of which adds to the pleasure of the performances. The program yesterday was headed by the Four Grohvinia, acrobats and iron-jawed performers. The Three Trocaderos, in a vocal repertoire, and La Dent, a comedy juggler, were also popular features of the bill.

Globe Theatre.

The Erette Brothers, European acrobats, gave fifteen minutes of sensational entertainment in the new bill at the Globe Theatre yesterday. This was only one of the long list of high class acts that made up the bill. Besides the vaudeville numbers there were illustrated songs by Jack Clahane and Jack O'Donnell, and a new assortment of motion picture films.

Howard Athenaeum.

Pat White returned to the Old Howard yesterday with a laughing burlesque called "Casey in Scotland," and he was assisted by a group of sprightly young women who made things particularly merry in many ways. There was also a lively vaudeville program.

Gaiety Theatre.

The Summer season of pictures and vaudeville at the Gaiety Theatre was begun yesterday with a program that was attractive in every particular. Many novelties were seen that will guarantee large business for the balance of the week.

Waldron's Casino.

The burlesque entertainment at Waldron's Casino Theatre yesterday was supplied by the Big Gaiety Company, and a lively two-act burletta was presented. It was called "A Florida Enchantment," and brought out a big company of pretty girls.

Orpheum Theatre.

Few bicycle acts in vaudeville approach in sensational qualities the performance that was given by Chester B. Johnston at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday. Mr. Johnston was easily the hit of the the program. Several other smart vaudeville features and new motion pictures completed the bill.

New Palace Theatre.

The New Palace Theatre offers a cool shelter on hot days. Among the features of this week's show are Anna Blancke and company, in "Freckles"; the great Le Roy, in his marvellous feats in a glass tank of water; the Herskinds, eccentric comedy cartoonists; Joseph Pesce, harp soloist, and Darcy and Emerson, manipulators of melody.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

The Terry Twins made the most of their time on the bill at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday. They were entertaining as well as humorous.

Hub Theatre.

Charles Bigney, in an astonishing water act, headed the new bill at the Hub Theatre yesterday. There was other attractive features on the bill.

Austin & Stone's.

A troupe of performing bears gave a capital entertainment in the curio hall at Austin & Stone's Museum yesterday. In the theatre there was a high-class vaudeville show.

Scenic Temple.

The new programme at the Scenic Temple yesterday was made up of new vaudeville numbers and several attractive motion picture films.

Plays That Remain.

"The Kiss Waltz," after an especially successfully opening on Saturday evening, began the first real week of its engagement at the Shubert last evening.

A new week of "The Commuters" was begun at the Park Theatre last evening.

The final week of "A Country Girl" was begun at the Tremont Theatre last evening.

"Judy O'Hara" entered upon its final week at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening.

SAYS PINK PILLS SAVED HER LIFE

This Young Woman Had All the Symptoms of Anaemia.

Her Cure Will Interest Every One Who Is Suffering from Lack of Good Red Blood.

Miss Isabella Boyd, of No. 31 South avenue, Brockport, N. Y., who was rapidly cured of a severe case of anæmia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, says:

"I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. I was a terrible wreck after being for years in an anæmic condition due to hard work and lack of out-of-door exercise. My heart fluttered so that I could not sleep on my left side or go upstairs without its paining me so that I had to press my hand on it. The heart beats were loud and I was so weak that I could not walk fast. My face and legs were bloated and the upper lids of my eyes were swollen like little sacks. My complexion was sallow, lips white and ears transparent.

"I employed one of the best doctors in the city for two years, but he didn't help me much and said my case was as bad as he had ever seen.

"I was downhearted and thought I would never get well. About this time it was my good fortune to read the case of a young woman who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after suffering as I had done. This gave me hope and I bought six boxes of the pills and they did me more good than all the other medicine I had taken. A few boxes more cured me and I have felt as well and strong as any woman could wish to feel. I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every one who is suffering from anemia."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an almost certain blood-builder and as a remedy for anæmic conditions will surprise by their marvelous results patients who have failed to regain health, strength and color by the use of other remedies. The pills have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. Our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," is free on request and should be read by every sufferer from thin or impure blood.

MAN ROBBED IN PARKER HOUSE

John Baker, twenty-two, of No. 168 West Seventh street, South Boston, was arraigned in the Municipal Court to-day charged with robbing William W. Peck of Bradford street, Needham, in the Parker House last night. The robbery was one of the most daring that has been called to the attention of the police for some time.

Baker, it is charged, backed Peck up against a telephone booth in the lobby of the hotel and took about everything Peck had loose about his person, even to his Panama hat. Several guests standing about in the corridor of the hotel were unaware of what was taking place until Baker calmly walked out the door into the street, when Peck commenced to shout he had been robbed.

Special Officers Patten, Miner and Buchanan, who were notified of the robbery, overtook Baker in Tremont street and he was locked up at the Court Square police station.

When searched at the station house two bill folds, a watch, a pocketknife, three tickets and fifty cents, all of which were stolen from Beck, are alleged to have been found on Baker. The Panama hat, the police say, they found stuffed down in one of the legs of his trousers. Peck was held as a witness and appeared against Baker in court.

ALLEN, FAMOUS SERGEANT, DIES

Sergeant Henry Allen is dead of heart trouble at the home of his son, Charles T. Allen, No. 22 Conway street, Roslindale, after an illness of three months.

Sergeant Allen was the oldest member of Thomas G. Stevenson post, G. A. R., of Roxbury. He was born at Lubec, Me., July 20, 1827. He enlisted at Roxbury in 1862 in Co. K, 35th Regiment, Massachusetts volunteers. The regiment was sent to Washington, and at Alexandria, a few days later, his company joined the retreating army of the Potomac after its defeat at the second battle of Bull Run. At Arlington he was made a corporal.

Corporal Allen was in the battles of South Mountain and Antietam, at the close of which he was promoted to sergeant.

The night before the battle of Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862, Sergeant Allen was appointed color sergeant. During the battle a bullet severed the staff, but enough of it remained to allow Sergeant Allen to raise the flag again and carry it at the head of his command throughout the rest of the battle.

Sergeant Allen leaves only his son Charles, with whom he has made his home in recent years. Stevenson post will participate in the funeral, which will take place to-morrow at the son's house.

IDEAL WOMAN? SHE DOESN'T EXIST, SAYS NOVELIST OPPENHEIM

By LAURENCE WARDE.

First of all concerning E. Phillips Oppenheim, the noted English author of romances, international and otherwise, now in Boston for a short stay, let it be writ large that he isn't over here to obtain material for a story of American life. Mr. Oppenheim says he isn't, for many reasons, among them being his belief that America has a lot of authors well qualified to write American stories, and that he isn't going to butt in. He didn't use the expression "butt in" but that's what he meant. And also——

He isn't here to search for the ideal woman. "There's no such a being in fiction or elsewhere," he says.

Mr. Oppenheim differs from the average English author in several other ways. First of all he has a quick sense of humor. He can get the point of an American joke as rapidly as the native-born Yankee. You see he married a Boston, or rather a Chelsea girl which is almost the same thing, which possibly may have something to do with this trait of the English author. Neither has he any preconceived notions of America. He has spent much time in this country and is far better posted concerning it than the average travelled Englishman.

Mr. Oppenheim likes the United States and its people in most respects save the weather and railroad trains. His opinion of the weather, as voiced by him at the Bellevue, would need careful editing before being printed in a family newspaper. Likewise his opinion of American railway trains. Mr. Oppenheim is for the English fashion in trains first, last and all the time.

Ducks Suffragism.

"English railway trains have this big advantage," he said; "if you travel first class you are a law unto yourself in many things. If you want a window up in your compartment up it goes. If you desire a drink you get it. I came over from New York in a fast train, but all the windows in the coach were tightly closed and appeals to the conductor or brakeman were absolutely in vain. As for your buffet system it's so behind the time as to be absolutely ridiculous.

"No, not a word about suffragism or suffragettes," replied Mr. Oppenheim in reply to a question. "I did say something about them in New York, only to find the next morning I had been ridiculously misquoted. I will say this much, though," and here the lines about his mouth relaxed, "for the life of me I can't see why your American women go in for the equal franchise. They've got everything else. Their position is so far ahead of their sisters in England or on the Continent that they have everything they can desire except the vote. American women are the best gowned, best hatted, best jeweled, best treated in every way of any women in the world.

"Why, if an American were to limit his expenditures on his wife the way an Englishman does, I fancy there would be a feminine revolt here in no time. The average Englishman doesn't begin to spend one-quarter on his women folk that an American husband and father does. Here it seems to me everything is done for the women. Over there the idea seems to be how cheaply the women folk can be clothed, fed, adorned and amused."

Mr. Oppenheim's reluctance to speak of women is due largely perhaps to the fact that he is essentially a man's man. Readers of his prolific literary output know that in his books the feminine element is subordinated to the male. The hero dominates the picture in almost all of them. The woman is a secondary character. He explains it thusly:

Women a Puzzle.

"I know what to do with a man. I never know what a woman character is going to do up to the very last chapter. I have started them along a certain line only to suddenly realize that, woman-like, they are going off at an altogether different angle from what I intended. I doubt if I ever will make a woman the leading character in any book of mine for the simple reason that I or no other man, for that matter, can ever know all a woman's impulses which cause her to do the most irrational things, even in fiction."

It's pretty near time for a word or two concerning Mr. Oppenheim's personal appearance. He's refreshing. Of medium height and passably stout with a clean shaven, ruddy face (that much of him is English all through), a mouth, the corners of which bespeak humor, a pair of keenly twinkling eyes, with humor also lurking in their depths, a forehead somewhat lonesome as regards hair, as befits a "literary gent," and you have Mr. Oppenheim physically. Mentally he is too well and enjoyably known for a description in repetition.

"And about the diplomatic intrigues of Europe and the Orient of which you have written so much? Are they really based on fact, as you have said?" he was asked.

"Yes, indeed? The capitals of Europe are filled with spies or, more euphoneously, secret service or diplomatic agents. Germany has the largest and the best system. Her agents are everywhere. France has an effective system, too, but nowhere near so good as Germany's. Russia has plenty of secret agents, but since her alliance with France she is using them more in her internal affairs. The English secret service is negligible."

German-Japanese Alliance.

"And about the United States?"

"I can't speak of something I know nothing about. I never have seen a secret agent of the United States anywhere in my travels. I have seen and know agents of other powers. It seems to me though that if you haven't them the time is coming when you'll have to. Your country has mixed itself in with world politics, and you'll have to play the game as others do.

"To-day the one point on which Germany's are focussed most strongly is Tokio. And the one country that has most fear from the success of German diplomatic intrigues there is the United States. A German-Japanese alliance is not so far off as most people think. It may even be arranged before the expiration of the Japanese treaty with England and then look out for trouble.

"Women diplomatic agents? Lots of them. They range all the way from women of the half-world up to women who are actuated by motives of the purest patriotism or self-sacrifice for men they love. As for their effectiveness, their services wouldn't be utilized otherwise."

Children's Hair Troubles

Much harm results from washing a child's head with common soaps and shampoos, as most of them contain too much alkali.

This makes the scalp rough and dry, and often leads to a diseased condition, which causes the hair to fall out. A safe thing to use is a shampoo made of pure Refined Creamy Soap, White of Eggs, Cocoanut Oil, Glycerin and Salicylic Acid. Birt's Head Wash is made of these ingredients. It removes the dirt and disease germs that settle in the hair and on the scalp, and makes the hair vigorous and glossy.

Drug and department stores sell it in hygienic tubes at 25c.

Beautiful Gertrude Quimby Tells of Her Flight

QUIMBY GIRL TELLS STORY

New York he looked up a girl friend for me.

"I left home on May 16. I want it to be clearly understood that I came to New York of my own accord and that I came absolutely alone. I first went to stay with a girl in Brooklyn. I will not tell who she was or where she lives. I made my home with her and went around to the booking agencies and tried to get a position.

"I think the fact that I look so young must have been against me because I couldn't get anything like a chance. Finally at one office where I thought I was certainly going to be given a trial they asked me how old I was and I told them that I was not quite sixteen. Then they told me that I would have to have a card from the Gerry society before they could hire me.

Arrested in Hotel.

"I left my friend's house in Brooklyn and stopped with some friends in Manhattan for a few days and kept up my rounds of the booking offices. On Saturday I moved to the hotel where I was living when arrested. I was on my way to a restaurant when the officers stopped me."

Miss Quimby said that she was living there with a girl friend named Marguerite Cecil. This was the only name that slipped out in her story. She declined to give any particulars about Miss Cecil.

The girl discussed her plans for the future in a mater-of-fact way. She seemed pleased that her mother had been reported as saying that she would consent to her going on the stage but that she wanted above all things to have her daughter with her and to have her started properly on her career.

NECKTIE CLUE TO CAMORRIST

VITERBO, Italy, May 23.—New evidence, considered the most important proofs so far discovered, was introduced in the Assize Court to-day against Gaetano Amedlo, the Camorrist accused by Giacomo Ascrittore of being an accomplice with Tomasso de Angelis in the actual murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and Maria Cutinelli Cuoccolo. A necktie, found in Amedlo's apartments, and shown by comparison, to be identical with several other ties discovered in the Cuoccolo apartments, was presented in evidence against Amedlo by the prosecution.

Enrico Alfano and his associates, accused in the original indictments as being the murderers and accessories in the murder of the Cuoccolos, hailed the introduction of this proof with cries of joy. They had good cause to rejoice, for the turn which the case took to-day circumstantially bore out the allegations of Ascrittore and Father Ciro Vittozzi, the Camorrist priest, that Amedlo and De Angelis were the real murderers and that Alfano and his associates were innocent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it is the only medicine for woman's peculiar ailments, sold by druggists, the makers of which feel fully warranted in thus taking the afflicted into their full confidence.

The more known about the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the more confidently will invalid women rely upon it to cure their peculiar weaknesses and derangements. There's no secrecy about its make-up—no deceptive inducements held out to the afflicted. It's simply a good, honest, square-deal medicine with no alcohol, or injurious, habit-forming drugs in its composition. Made wholly from roots. It can do no harm in any condition of woman's organism.

Devised and put up by a physician of vast experience in the treatment of woman's maladies. Its ingredients have the indorsement of leading physicians in all schools of practice.

The "Favorite Prescription" is known everywhere as the standard remedy for diseases of women and has been so regarded for the past 40 years and more.

Accept no secret nostrum in place of "Favorite Prescription"—a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, with a record of 40 years of cures behind it.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. PETRIFIED PUP AMONG MISSING

Lost anything? Or found it?

Whether it is the effect of the hot wave or because today is the twenty-third of the month, or on account of the general "cussedness" of human affairs is not known, but today seems to be "Lost and Found Day" for Greater Boston.

Eighteen "L. and F." ads in the papers today; eighteen. Count 'em.

Many think it was the weather. It was so "durned" hot Sunday and yesterday that nobody cared.

Father went out with the dog for a walk and lost the dog. Mother went calling and lost her gold watch. Sister lost her diamond ring.

One party advertises losing a book on the Boston postoffice steps. Party seems to know just where the book disappeared, but is shy of knowledge as to its present whereabouts.

One loser advertises a wishbone pin. There was small luck in that wishbone.

The "L. & F." list is topped by Mrs. Wirt Dexter's "petrified pup" adv. This announces again the departure of a valued stone dog from the Dexter residence. The adv. does not say the dog was "lost." It was "taken away." Stone dogs do not walk off of their own volition.

Three purses are among the missing. Two contain, or did contain, real money.

One of the saddest items is the loss of a "silver-handled rosewood cane" by a Boston newspaper man. But what right has a newspaper man to any such gaudy weapon, anyhow? Plain malacca for yours, "Bus."

Bay Rum	6 o
Lavona de Composee	2 o
Menthol Crystals	½ d

These are all staple, standard d inexpensive pharmaceutical product that you can buy from any good druggist. You can mix them yourself a home or the druggist will do it for you. Allow to stand one-half hou before using. Apply night and morning, rubbing briskly into the scalp with finger ti or a medium stiff brush. The one 8 oz. bottle should in most cases be sufficient to completely clear the head of dandruff and kill the germ, thereby preventing its return. This treatment is also excellent for making the hair grow and to keep the hair from falling out, and although not a stain or dye, will restore natural color to gray, streaked or faded hair in from 15 to 30 days simply by its action on the hair roots. Be careful not to apply where hair is not desired.

BOMB CASE LOS ANGELES

GELES, Cal., May 23.—News risoners had been placed in jail charged with conspiracy to dy- the $1,000,000 Hall of Records stir in union circles to-day. The are Bert H. Connors and J. Man- the latter known also as "John and "James Hendricks."

are said to have been members ocal union of the Structural Iron eldgeworkers, and Parks a former of the organization. Both men rested last night and immediately ard District Attorney Fredericks he had called a special session of rand Jury to meet to-day. It was pre- that several of the suspects now un- rveillance would be summoned before body and probably indicted and ar- during the day.

nnors attempted to escape when arrest- but was overpowered. It is understood seven men have been implicated in the eged plot to dynamite the Hall of Records, and it is further said that a woman, own to the authorities under the name "Miss Ross," will also be taken into stody. For three months Chief of Detec- ives Samuel Browne of the district attor- ey's office and his men have been follow- g Connors, and his arrest came as he s making preparations to leave for eattle.

MANY WRITE OF POMEROY CASE

As evidence of the absorbing and universal interest that has been manifested in the letters of Jesse Pomeroy to his mother, in which the famous prisoner, shut in from the world for almost forty years, lays bare the story of his life in solitary confinement, men in all walks of life have written to this and other newspapers regarding the unparalleled case.

The letters written by Pomeroy, which appear exclusively in the Sunday AMERICAN, have never before been published. That a punishment worse than death has been meted out to the life-term prisoner is the opinion of many of those who have taken the time to write since the first series of the letters were published last Sunday.

Others blame the conditions that were responsible for the man's state of mind when the crimes that he is alleged to have committed so inflamed public opinion that the then beardless youth was sentenced to spend the rest of his life with none but his own bitter thoughts for companions.

A letter to the Boston Herald and published by that newspaper is reprinted here. It is similar to many communications from the public in behalf of the life convict.

The next installment of Jesse Pomeroy's letters will appear in next Sunday's AMERICAN, and by comparing them with those that appeared last Sunday it can be readily seen how the youth progressed from month to month and from year to year, alone in his quiet cell, mastering the intricacies of Greek, Latin and sciences. The letter written to the Herald by John Snyder, a clergyman, of Nantucket, is as follows:

Calls Treatment "Barbarism."

To the Editor of The Boston Herald:

It is well to have the attention of the public called at intervals to the kind of punishment this wretched creature has been called to suffer. Nothing can afford a better illustration of the semi-barbaric stage of our penology. Some time ago I talked with a very able criminal lawyer from the State of Illinois. When I say that he has convicted more than sixty men of the crime of murder, and helped secure the conviction of the Chicago Anarchists, you will see that he is no mere sentimentalist, suffering from the hysterics of benevolence. He said: "I know of nothing that can exceed the cruelty, the indefensible barbarism of the treatment of Jesse Pomeroy."

Personally I do not share the fashionable notion that all crime is disease, that all criminals are to be treated simply as patients, and that society has no right to punish men, but only to cure them. I believe that society has the right, and that it is its duty, to express its moral condemnation of crime by condign punishment of criminals. There are children—God help them—who are born into an atmosphere of crime, to whom crime is not second but first nature. To treat such creatures wisely and humanely is one of the best tests of our civilization. But there are educated men and women who knowingly violate the laws of our social being. Such creatures should be made to feel the weight of society's penalty. But punishment may be well merited and severe without being foolishly and unmeaningly brutal.

Half Christian; Half Pagan.

To take a half-formed creature like Pomeroy, fling him into the hell of his own solitude, separate him from his own kind, give him no society except the phantoms born of his own hatreds and thirst for revenge, never let him see a face or hear a voice from the banished world except what expressed that world's condemnation and resentment, all this is barbaric, pagan, a vitriolic blister on our pretended Christianity. The simple fact is that in our criminology we are half Christian and half pagan. We have neither the wisdom nor the courage needed to accept either philosophy.

We have not the simple faith to say: "Every soul is a child of God. If he becomes a transgressor we will punish him and afflict him, and choke his pathway with thorns, and make him eat only the bread of honest industry, and treat him as a wilful, lawless child, until he is willing to come back to the sense of his divine relationship." Or we haven't the courage to say: "Man hath no pre-eminence over the beast. He is the last result of a meaningless evolution! Therefore, if he is a criminal, if he makes war on society, we will kill him without mercy and without compunction." It is time we became all Christian or all pagan.

I am glad that Governor Foss has once more called attention to this case, but I am afraid that there is no method of betterment open to him except by the way of pardon, which no one, I think, wishes to have granted. He has no power to modify the decree of the court.

TO-MORROW IS THE "JOY DAY"

Wednesday's going to be a "Joy Day" in Boston.

People in Boston are going to forget the hot wave, cold wave, storm wave and the ocean wave in the wave of joy that Mutt and Jeff will bring to them that day.

All Boston is going to wear smiles (in addition to the usual raiment) on Wednesday, for not only will Mutt and his accomplice and accessory, before and after the fact, laugh-making 'lil' Jeff, appear in the AMERICAN on that day, but miniature Mutts and Jeffs are going to be in town, too. The fact is, Mutt and Jeff are tired of wandering. They need a good home. Mutt dare not return to Mrs. Mutt, for various reasons, and Jeff lost his happy home "yars and yars ago."

Take 'Em Home With You.

So Mutt and Jeff are going to give everyone in Boston and vicinity the opportunity to have a little Mutt and Jeff in their homes. What is home without Mutt and Jeff? There's no answer except one—"Glooms."

Naturally the real Mutt and Jeff cannot distribute themselves promiscuously into all the homes that need them to keep out bad little glooms. So they're going to do the very next best thing.

They have had thousands of cute little plaster cast of themselves made by an eminent sculptor whose innate modesty forbids the use of his name, and these little joy-bringers are going to be placed on sale to-morrow in the downtown stores.

Prices Are Low.

Bearing in mind the recent Standard Oil decision of the United States Supreme Court about "being reasonable," and with the further idea of bringing joy to many homes at a low cost, Mutt and Jeff have held a meeting and decided to put the price of their plaster selves at so reasonable a figure for their figures (get that?) that no home can be without them.

No one who ever has seen Bud Fisher's creations in the daily or Sunday AMERICAN need be told that when Mutt and Jeff are placed in a home this sign goes up over the front door, "Abondon gloom all ye who enter here."

Joy Day in Boston to-morrow. Mutt and Jeff will be on the job.

COMMENCEMENT AT NORTHFIELD JUNE 10

The activities of the Summer conference at Northfield will begin with June 10-13, when will be held the commencement exercises of the Northfield Seminary, founded by the late Dr. Dwight L. Moody. The Rev. F. B. Meyer of London, England, will deliver the commencement address in the new Russell Sage Chapel. During the period from June 10-17 Dr. Meyer will also deliver several addresses in the Chapel of Mount Hermon School across the river.

FORMER MEMBER OF NINTH MISSING

Charles W. Twohey, eighteen years old, who lived with his mother and brother at No. 40 Phillips street, Roxbury, has been missing since Christmas. His mother is of the opinion that he is either in Mexico with the Mexican insurrectionists or in the Philippines. He was a member of the Ninth Regiment, M. V. M., and fond of military manoeuvres.

VETO BILL IS BEFORE LORDS

LONDON, May 23.—The second reading of the veto bill was moved in the House of Lords to-day. The debate will probably last for several days. Attempts will be made to amend it in committee, but the government will refuse to accept such amendments, or disclose its own plan for reforming the second chamber.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

WOMAN WRITER ASKS DIVORCE

LONDON, May 23.—The American authoress, "Irene Osgood," who was formerly Mrs. Charles Pigott Harvey, and who before that was a Miss De Belot, of Virginia, was the central figure at the divorce court here to-day in the suit for a judicial separation from her husband, Robert Harborough Sherard, the English author.

Mrs. Sherard testified to various acts of cruelty on the part of her husband as well as to his intemperate habits. The proceedings were adjourned until to-morrow.

606 ANSWER TO THE 606

Massachusetts Medical Society

The dignified society doctors, victims of chronic Dignitis, have expelled me from the Mass. Medical Society for advertising Prof. Paul Ehrlich's great discovery, "606," for blood poison. They have NOT "expelled" my skill as a practising physician and surgeon. They have NOT "expelled" my good standing before the law. They have NOT "expelled" my patients from consulting me and receiving advice and treatment. They have NOT "expelled" the ethics of Humanity, which eclipse the moss-grown by-laws, code and ethics of the Mass. Medical Society. I have shown them that they are a medical trust which, in comparison, makes all other trusts philanthropic organizations. I will show them how they can use the press in wiping out a disease that is scourging the human race. If that be wrong, I prefer to stand alone. So get out of my way. You were in it too long. "606" prevents early paralysis, locomotor ataxia, checks its advancement when mercury and potash fail. Why does the medical world hold back when they know that the press is intended to spread news and knowledge? Read the December number of McClure's Magazine, and if your physician is progressive, ask his opinion.

Shortest Line

Chicago to Puget Sound

With a speed unequaled in engineering annals, the shortest line between Lake Michigan and the Puget Sound was built. It is the master stroke of railway construction—this wonderful steel trail—piercing the heart of wonderland's scenic grandeur. Its route carries it at low grade from Chicago to Seattle and Tacoma.

Task Greater Than the Panama Canal

The canal builders were outdone by this astonishing feat of railroad building. A third more earth than the canal builders removed in five years, excavated in three years to make for this new steel trail. Seemingly bottomless gulches were filled in by the dumping of thousands of cubic yards of dirt and rock—deep ravines bridged—tunnels requiring excavations exceeding a million cubic yards were driven through mountains to obtain a low grade and short line. These amazing feats accomplished have given America a railroad masterpiece.

Through Passenger Service Starts May 28 and 29 Over the New Steel Trail

Two splendid new steel trains, "The Olympian" and "The Columbian" will be operated daily between Chicago, Seattle and Tacoma. "The Olympian" will leave Chicago at 10:15 P. M. (first trip May 28) and "The Columbian" at 10:00 A. M. (first trip May 29). The route is over the

NEW MEXICAN REVOLT FEARED

MEXICO CITY, May 23.—Dispatches from Havana, stating that General Bernardo Reyes had been asked by leaders of two political parties to head a new revolution in Mexico, caused excitement among insurrectos and government followers today. Reyes is said to have been promised the support of the Independent Democratic and National Catholic parties if he will assume the leadership of the organization, aiming to prevent the triumph of Madero following the downfall of Diaz.

Senor de la Barra, who will succeed Diaz, professes confidence that Reyes will remain loyal to the national interests by helping to preserve peace, but nevertheless there is an undercurrent of anxiety in official circles as to whether the temptation offered the old warrior will be sufficient to win him over.

Diaz Ill in Palace.

The political situation is engrossing public interest to the expulsion of any thought of Diaz, who is seriously ill in his palace, or of General Figueroa, who is only forty miles away with his "army of the south."

The radicals are called upon by Enrique Dilos Rios to gather about him and establish a republic of advanced ideas. The strength of the Catholic party is expected to be demonstrated during the campaign preceding the special election. This party claims always to have been harassed by Diaz, and is proceeding to extend its organization with the aim of wielding the power surrendered by Diaz. The Maderists have devoted their efforts to fighting and have done little in the way of political maneuvring. Indeed, students of politics declare that if the election were to be held in the immediate future Madero's followers would be overwhelmed.

Madero to End Anarchy.

The physical condition of President Diaz is so bad now that his ministers have decided that the ceremonies attending his retirement will be held in private at his residence, with only government officials and the diplomatic corps attending.

From Juarez comes news that Madero is seriously alarmed over the action of rebel chieftains in continuing the fighting, despite his acceptance of peace terms, and that he is taking energetic measures to show that his is the real authority of the revolution. His first notice of the armistice having failed to end the conflicts, he is sending telegrams to every accessible commander, firmly ordering a cessation of hostilities.

SEND MONEY TO AID 40 GIRL STRIKERS

Money to help the forty girl nightdress makers on strike at the Kingston street shop of the Kingston Manufacturing Company is being sent in so rapidly by the men trade unionists of the city that the payment of strike benefits will be started next Saturday. The strike has been endorsed by the Boston Central Labor Union. John C. Dyche of New York, international secretary-treasurer of the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, is expected in Boston to-day to help conduct the strike to a successful conclusion.

INDIANS AT THE ROCK.

The Indians who were a feature of "The World in Boston" went to Plymouth Rock to-day to see the rock on which the Pilgrims landed. They were accompanied by Dr. Sarah Stevens and Miss Sarah Webster.

HONEYMOON SPECIAL AUTO NEW FEATURE, CHICAGO TO GOTHAM

CHICAGO, May 23.—From Chicago to New York and return by automobile is the latest transportation wrinkle. The first car of a regular bi-weekly passenger service leaves here to-day. The "Honeymoon Special" will be the name of one of the cars to be run to New York and the company has high hopes of its popularity. Thirty cars have been ordered. The trip will require fifteen days traveling on a schedule of 150 miles a day and the fare will be $100. Arrangements have been made at the best hotels to accommodate the passengers over night, the cost being $40.

GET FLAGS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Last chance to begin clipping flag coupons in time for Memorial Day.

It takes seven coupons to make a flag series. If you begin clipping flag coupons to-day you will have seven coupons of consecutive dates by next Monday. Then you can get your flag on Monday.

You don't wish to wait till Memorial Day itself to come in and get your flag. You will have other things on your mind that day.

Remember, you must allow seven days in which to clip the coupons. Readers sometimes forget that in making their plans to decorate the house with a new flag on the holiday.

How to get a flag:

Clip seven flag coupons from the Daily and Sunday AMERICAN of consecutive dates. If you wish to have the flag come by mail, send the seven coupons and a postoffice money order for forty-two cents to cover cost of mailing and handling.

If you call for the flag at the Flag Department of the AMERICAN at No. 275 Devonshire street, it will cost you thirty-five cents and seven coupons.

There is no waiting in line at the Flag Department, no delay. The flags are all ready for you, nicely wrapped up. If ordered by mail they will come in stout fibre paper envelopes.

Applicants should understand clearly that all mail orders must be addressed to Flag Department, Boston AMERICAN, P. O. Box 3047, Boston.

Th AMERICAN is not responsible for money sent through the mail in any form other than Postoffice money order or check. Do not send cash or stamps.

The flag which the AMERICAN gives under this order is of solid woven bunting of highest grade, with colors absolutely fast. The stripes are sewed throughout with double rows of stitches and the corners are solidly fastened. A heavy canvas border, with large brass grommets for ropes, completes it.

For the convenience of AMERICAN readers who live in Providence flags may be obtained from the special AMERICAN agent in Providence, Max Silverstein, at No. 23 Canal street. He will redeem flag coupons which are BROUGHT to his store, but will supply no mail orders. ALL mail orders must be sent to the Flag Department, P. O. Box 3047, Boston.

LOMASNEY TO SPEAK.

The North Cambridge Democratic Club will hold its next regular meeting at Odd Fellows Hall, North Cambridge, Thursday night. Martin Lomasney of Boston will address the club on "Party Organization." The proposed city charter for Cambridge will come up for discussion during the evening and a lively meeting is expected. John Buckley will preside.

AUTO TRADE IN SOUTH AMERICA

By J. C. KERRISON.

The experiences of John L. Poole, special Lozier representative, who has been visiting the South American countries since last November, in the interests of the Lozier Company, gives an insight into the conditions of the automobile trade in the Latin American countries of exceptional interest.

Mr. Poole left New York last November and reached New York on his return a few days ago, and is at the headquarters of the company in Detroit. He visited Brazil, Argentine Republic and Uruguay, which are the principal countries of South America in which the automobile market is found. He states that while these countries have great natural resources, American exporters in this country have been misled by highly colored reports of the possibilities for the sale of American goods.

The American manufacturer is placed at a great disadvantage with his European rivals by reason of the fact that the great bulk of export trade is carried on with the European countries, owing to the superior transportation facilities between European and South American ports. The steamer lines between the American ports and South America are inferior in every way to the lines operating between South American countries and Europe, and the wealthy and traveled class are frequent visitors to London, Paris and Berlin, and a comparatively small number ever visit the United States. Naturally this tends to build up trade between the European and South American countries.

With what is left of thirty days' rations stowed away in the tonneau, gasoline cans attached to the running boards, and a tent, cooking stove, utensils and other necessary whatnot filling every inch of available space, three Packard executives are now in Wyoming on a six weeks test run in a 1912 Packard "Six."

In the party are Henry B. Joy, president; Russell Huff, chief engineer, and E. F. Roberts, general superintendent. All are dressed for roughing it. Mr. Joy in a suit of khaki, sombrero and flannel shirt, and the others similarly clad. They have avoided stopping in cities, staking out their camp when necessary but reducing stops to a minimum.

The start was made Monday, May 8, and after leaving Chicago they followed the established trans-continental route across Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming. The party is now in the famous Jackson Hole country in the southwest corner of Wyoming.

According to a dispatch from Los Angeles, the Warren-Detroit that made a new class record of 1,167 miles in twenty-four hours, has made another demonstration of equal importance to the motoring public.

Not only did its Firestone tires cover the 1,167 miles of terrific strain without any evidence of wear, but they have been in general use since then and have just gone through a strenuous three-day endurance run in Southern California without trouble or attention of any kind.

M., upon the resignation of Alfred Reeves, will be the acting manager of the new organization.

TOM L. JOHNSON'S ESTATE IS $135,000

CLEVELAND, May 23.—Mrs. Tom L. Johnson, widow of the late single taxer and champion of three-cent fares, has made application in Probate Court to be appointed administratrix of the local estate of her husband. In her application she stated that there is no real estate but that the personal property is valued at $135,000.

M. C. O. F. GATHER FOR CONVENTION

WORCESTER, May 23.—The annual convention of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters will begin in this city in Mechanics Hall to-morrow morning. Many of the delegates are already in the city. Most of them will be here by this evening, when Worcester courts will tender them a reception.

There will be more than 650 delegates in the convention hall when the meeting is called to order by High Chief Ranger John H. Harrigan. It is understood that he is not a candidate for re-election. Nothing regarding changes in the full high standing committee have been forecasted. High Chief Ranger Harrigan is a member of it, as are also Cornelius M. Duggan of Atlantic, H. V. C. R., and Dr. Francis J. Hanes of Whitman, H. M. Ex.

This will be the thirty-second annual convention of the order, which has had a remarkable growth of late, and which is in a most encouraging financial condition. The reports of the officers will gratify all the members, it is predicted by those who have inspected advance sheets.

FAVORS SCHOOL KISSING COURSE

CHICAGO, May 23.—Kissing according to scientific rules and hugging according to academic theory will be part of school courses hereafter, if Professor R. E. Blount of Waller High School is able to launch the plan he proposed at the child welfare exhibit.

"I believe," said Professor Blount, "that there should be a proper course of instruction, preparing children for married life. This instruction should begin in infancy and continue through life and youth.

"Courtship should not be left to chance and the unguided impulses of youth, nor is the guardian's duty done when he has impressed the importance of proprieties on his charges. To this negative instruction must be added positive counsel and training.

COLORED BOXER DEFEATS QUILL

ALBANY, N. Y., May 23.—Kid Henry, the colored Troy welterweight, forced Tommy Quinn of Brockton, Mass., to quit cold in the second round of their ten round go. Quill claimed to have walked into one of the black fighter's pivot punches in the first round and lost all his teeth.

Henry had all the better of the first round, and from the mixing it appeared that Quill was outclassed. Henry landed two to one on Quill and did much damage in the clinches.

After feinting in the first ten seconds of the second round, Quill's head was rocked with a vicious uppercut. He slipped and rested on his knee, allowing the referee to proclaim Henry the winner through the doleful count of ten.

FOOTBALL DATES FOR HARVARD

Harvard football schedule has been officially announced for the coming Fall and contains one surprise at least, the return of Holy Cross to the Crimson list of games. This will be the second one of the nine games, eight of which will be played in Cambridge, the Worcesterites playing in the Stadium on October 7. Bowdoin applied for a place on the Harvard schedule again this year, as in past seasons, but there was much conflict in dates, and finally negotiations had to be broken off, and thus Holy Cross regained the place which has been lost to her since 1904, the last time she met the Crimson. As both Harvard and Yale will meet this college early in the season, opportunity will be given the dopesters to get a line on the relative merits of the rivals several times during the season, the Brown game, which comes much later, also affording a good chance to do this when the teams have come more nearly in their best form.

The only game on the Harvard schedule which will be played away from the Stadium this year is that with Princeton, which will occur at Tigertown. Yale comes to Cambridge this Fall for the big game of the season.

The athletic committee at its meeting also approved the schedule of the freshmen football team next Fall. The two schedules are as follows:

Varsity—September 30, Bates; October 7, Holy Cross; October 14, Williams; October 21, Amherst; October 27, Brown; November 4, Princeton at Princeton; November 11, Carlisle; November 18, Dartmouth; November 25, Yale.

Freshmen—October 11, Groton at Groton; October 14, St. Mark's at Southboro; October 21, Andover at Andover; October 28, open; November 4, Princeton 1915 at Princeton; November 11, Worcester Academy at Worcester; November 18, Yale 1915 at Cambridge.

SOCIETY BOXER MAY DIE OF SNAKE BITE

MEMPHIS, May 23.—Nash Buckingham, southern heavy-weight pugilistic champion in amateur classes and society leader, is said to be at death's door as a result of a bite from a moccasin snake during a cross-country sprint while in training. The physicians say that presence of mind in cutting open the wound alone prevented the young man from a horrible death.

BOXING AND WRESTLING.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 23.—The McGregorville A. C. conducted a boxing and wrestling meeting in the presence of practically the entire club membership and many invited guests. The wrestling exhibitions were between Danielson and Lavigne, Roy and Orland and Kilonis and Poulis. The boxing was between Garon and Geoffron, who went four lively rounds. The contestants were all well matched.

CANOE RACES START MONDAY

Mystic Lake in the vicinity of the Medford Boat Club's attractive quarters has been a scene of great activity for nearly a month past, because the members of the organization are training for the annual camp meeting and races of the Eastern Division of the American Canoe Association on Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, beginning Saturday.

Vice Commodore Jack Howard of the Medford Boat Club, an old racer with an enviable past of canoe records, has charge of all the arrangements for the camp and is looking forward to a record meet.

The campers will come from all over New England and there will be visitors from New York and the Middle West as well. The canoe clubs that will be represented are:

Medford Boat Club, Dedham Boat Club, Union Boat Club of Boston, Innitou Canoe Club of Woburn, Winchester Boat Club, Arlington Boat Club, Totasuit Canoe Club of Worcester, the Lakeside and Kalumet Boat Clubs, also of Worcester, Springfield Canoe Club, Holyoke Boat Club, Lawrence Canoe Club, Pemigewasset Canoe Club of Haverhill, Roger Williams Swastika Canoe Club and Narragansett Boat Club, all of Providence, Woukituk and Minnie-ska Canoe Club of East Providence, Pawtuxet and Saskatchewan Canoe Clubs of Phillipsdale, R. I., Quinnipac Canoe Club of New Haven, Hartford Canoe Club, Knickerbocker Canoe Club of New York, New York Canoe Club, Irondequoit Canoe club of Rochester, Quinquingus Canoe Club, Hackensack, N. J., and others.

Monday the racing will begin. An eight-oared race between crews from the Worcester High School and Kalumet Club will be held. Tuesday will be the big race day. A war canoe race of five crews of nine men each, over a mile course, will be held. This, for spectacular features, is not equaled by any other water race.

The officers of the Eastern Division this year are: Vice commodore, B. Howard, Medford Boat Club; rear commodore, Edward B. Stearns, Cygnet Boat Club; purser, William K. Irving, Medford Boat Club; executive committee, B. L. Goodwin, Dedham Boat Club; A. Ritchie, Lawrence Canoe Club; William A. Heath, Swastika Canoe Club.

NEW ENGLAND BOYS HONORED AT COLLEGE

WASHINGTON, May 23.—New England boys practically ran away with all the offices of the various athletic organizations of Georgetown University in the elections just held. Tom Smith of Hartford, Ct., was elected president of the athletic association, and M. M. Cunniff of Boston was elected treasurer. Thomas Harrington of Boston was elected assistant manager of next year's football team, and James Madigan of Houlton, Me., was elected assistant manager of next year's crew.

Cunniff is an oarsman and football player. He is centre rush on the varsity eleven. Neither Harrington nor Madigan is a member of any of Georgetown's teams, but both are deeply interested in athletics. Smith and Cunniff are members of the class of 1913, while Madigan and Harrington are 1914 men.

GOODWIN KNOCKED OUT BY BOYLE

WOBURN, May 23.—Young Kenney of Woburn and Young Cote of Biddeford, Me., went ten rounds to a draw in the final bout of the Woburn A. A. show, held at Lyceum Hall. This is the third time these boxers have met, each having gained a decision over the other. They boxed warily to-night, each paying more attention to defence than attack. The best bout of the evening was the semi-final between Young Boyle of Lowell and Frank Goodwin of Boston. This bout was scheduled to go eight rounds, but was won by Boyle on a knockout in the seventh.

WHY MOHA WON'T FIGHT.

MILWAUKEE, May 23.—The cancelling by Bob Moha without notice of his match at Boston with Freddie Klaus is believed to be due to the recent ditching of Moha by Gardner and the result of a row among local fight promoters. Moha's friends say, although his manager refuses to talk, that the men who matched Bob and Klaus were interested in persuading Gardner to cancel his fight here with Moha.

SULLIVAN-NITCHIE BOUT OFF

NEW YORK, May 23.—Owing to the illness of his wife, Paddy Sullivan, the sturdy Brooklyn boxer, could not meet Young Nitchie of Philadelphia in their scheduled ten-round bout at the Olympic A. C. in Harlem. In the final event of the evening, which went ten rounds, Young Hickey easily defeated Johnny Harvey of Chicago.

POLICE STOP BOUT.

WORCESTER, May 23.—The police jumped in on the wrestling match between Waino Ketonen and Fritz Hanson at the Auditorium, after the men had worked 2 hours 45 minutes without a fall. Both resorted to foul tactics. Ketonen was bleeding at the mouth and both eyes were swollen.

A FAST DRAW.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23. — Young Ahearn, the English dancing master, and Young Erne, of Grays Ferry, fought the windup to an all-star show at the American A. C., and at the finish of six fast rounds neither was [illegible] to the verdict.

NEW BEDFORD'S FAST BOXING

NEW BEDFORD, May 23.—The fastest kind of boxing entertained a crowd of about 600 at the New Bedford A. C. The main bout, between Fred Yell of Taunton and Fred O'Brien of Chelsea, went the scheduled twelve rounds, Yell winning. Yell's clean, rapid hitting earned him the decision through O'Brien's superior ring experience and punishing right swings gave him an occasional lead. Yell administered terrific punishment in the eighth, and O'Brien appeared groggy at the bell, but came back in the ninth.

Harold Walker of England proved too fast "Chicken" Roskin of this city. Roskin fought like a whirlwind during the first round, but after that Walker scored at will with his speedy left and fairly wore out his opponent. In the eighth Roskin was unable to make even a bluff at fighting back and was disqualified.

Johnny Gallant of Boston was matched with Jim Flynn of Pawtucket for eight rounds, but Gallant put his man out in the third. Gallant sent his man to his knees for nine seconds in the second round with a right to the stomach, and won in the next on another heavy body blow followed by right and left to the jaw.

AMATEUR GAMES ARE WANTED

The Andrew A. A. of South Boston expect a very successful season, and, judging from the way they played in their first two games, it will take a very fast bunch of ball players to defeat them. The team has defeated the Neponset Warren 7 to 2 and the Dorchester Centre Association 12 to 4. The work of the battery has been excellent. Faulep struck out twenty-one men and allowed only ten hits in two games, while only two stolen bases are credited against Montgomery. They would like to arrange games with the fastest semi-professional teams in the State for June, July and August away from home. Prefer Newton Catholic Club, "Nuf Ced" McGreerys, Norwood Press, Needham Y. M. C. A., Eastern A. A., Miah Murray's White Bears, Newtonville and Nonantum Club of Newton. George T. Cunniff, No. 606 Dorchester avenue, South Boston.

The Hyde Park semi-pro team has a few open dates in June, July and August, and May 30, p. m. Open for games away from home for a reasonable guarantee. Games have already been arranged with Fitchburg, Hamiltons of Lynn, Quincy, champions of the Old Colony League; Wakefield and Norwood. Hyde Park has played and won four straight games, including Charlie Ganzell's Makaris team and Quincy. They stand ready to defend the semi-pro championship of the State, which they claim. Address T. F. Devine, No. 472 West River street, Readville.

The Hamiltons of Lynn have reorganized under new management and would like to hear from strong teams for games away from home. They also stand ready to fill all games booked by the previous manager, and as they are unable to obtain the old schedule they would appreciate the favor if teams holding booking with them would notify the new manager, who will give the matter his early attention. They would also state that the team remains intact. D. J. Donohue, No. 28 Harbor street, Lynn.

The Atlantic Baseball Club is again in the field with a strong semi-pro team, made up of many Old Colony League stars and fast semi-pro ball players, and teams offering suitable guarantees should make applications for games at once. Reading, North Woburn, Plymouth Cordage, Hyannis and Norwell preferred. A. Keohane, No. 47 Madison street, Atlantic.

The Bradford A. A. desires games away from home during July and August with fast amateur or semi-professional teams paying a reasonable guarantee. Would like to hear from Stoneham, Linden A. A., Reading, Ipswich, U. S. M. Co., Everett or other reliable teams. Chris J. McHale, No. 49 Hasseltine street, Bradford.

The crack Romar A. A. team of Roxbury would like to hear from Plymouth Cordage, Wareham, Reading, Needham, Attleboro, Swampscott and York Beach; also any strong amateur or semi-pro team giving a fair guarantee. Open dates June 3, 17, 24, July 4, 15, 2, August 1st and 10. T. F. Hogan, No. 45 Rockland street, Roxbury.

The Gilchrist Young Men's Club, composed of some of the fastest amateurs in the vicinity, are rapidly arranging their schedule for the coming season. Open dates are July 4, 15, 22, 29, August 5, 12, 19, September 2, 4, 9 October 12. John F. Sullivan manager, Gilchrist Company.

The South Hanover A. A. is desirous of arranging games for Saturdays in June, July and August. Would like to hear from Plymouth Cordage, Randolph, Hyannis and teams in that class. Address Robert Dwelley, South Hanover, Mass.

The Roxburys, composed of semi-professional and collegiate players, would like games with strong teams in June, July and August. Beverly, Rockport and Woonsocket preferred. William Gaddis, No. 37 Pemberton square, Boston.

The Crescents of Boston are without games for June, July and August. Would like to hear from strong teams in Lawrence, Haverhill, Manchester and Rhode Island. Oscar F. Le Beau, No. 34 Joy street, Boston.

The Framingham Independents would like to arrange games with any fast semi-pro team in the State. Please state guarantee. Games must be away from home. Write E. C. Green, Hotel Winthrop, South Framingham.

HEAVYWEIGHTS AT THE ARMORY

It will be quite a treat to-night at the Armory when Jack Leon and John Perelli, the wrestlers, go after each other with the gloves in the opening six-round bout.

Both have boxed before and in their wrestling bouts did more boxing than wrestling. It has been the wish of the fans to see them against each other in the ring, feeling sure the bout will be a hot one.

Billy Morrow, the United States jackie, who has made a good impression with the sports here, meets Joe Nelson, the tough one from Lawrence, in a six-round go. Jerry Gaines and Bob LeFavour, who clash in an eight-round bout, are expected to make the fur fly.

MIKE GLOVER LOSES TO FIGHTER CROUSE

PITTSBURG, May 23.—Mike Glover of Boston gave a pretty exhibition of the art of avoiding punishment in a six-round go with "Buck" Crouse of Pittsburg, though the decision was given to Crouse after the match had gone the full number of rounds. The local man was the aggressor from the opening round. During the first four rounds the Boston man did little but keep out of danger. He outpointed the local favorite 10 to 1 in boxing, but the crowd yelled for more slugging.

The best part of the show, from a boxing standpoint, was the way Glover stopped Crouse's rushes during the early rounds, doing so almost at will. Later the crowd angered him and he showed less caution.

MANDOT WHIPS SCHWARTZ.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 23.—Joe Mandot defeated Yankee Schwartz in eight rounds at the Phoenix A. C. The gong saved Schwartz in the fourth round. Efforts were started to match Mandot against Frankie Conley.

MORGAN LOSES TO PADDY LAVIN

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—Paddy Lavin of Buffalo gave Jack Morgan of Indianapolis a fearful beating in a scheduled ten-round bout, Morgan's seconds throwing up the sponge early in the ninth.

In the previous round Lavin dropped Morgan with an uppercut to the chin for a count of eight and a moment later sent him to the floor with a left swing to the jaw, the bell saving him.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE MEETS

The final organization meeting of the Municipal Baseball League of Boston, a part of the new Municipal Athletic Association, will be held at 8 o'clock to-night at the Newsboys' Club, No. 117 Tremont street. A complete registration of teams and players will be taken and a preliminary schedule worked out.

At a meeting of the baseball committee yesterday it was decided that membership in the new league will be confined to residents of Boston.

CUBS AND RUSTLERS AT SOUTH END PARK

By R. W. LARDNER.

Perhaps they'll break their losing streak over the heads of F. Chance's Cubs, champions of the National League. Nothing is impossible in baseball. Remember, Roger Bresnahan has two pitchers named Laudermilk. It doesn't seem as if there could be two people in the world with that name, but there are. So you can expect almost anything to happen.

The Cubs got in from Philadelphia this morning. This Eastern trip of theirs hasn't been so bad after all. They started out like a wreck, dropping the first two battles in New York. But they got busy and evened up the Giant series and then continued to win over in Brooklyn. They absolutely refused to be frightened by the appearance of Philadelphia's W[illegible] column and licked the league leaders to a finish. Now they're here with wicked thoughts in their minds, but they may get a severe shock or two ere they leave town.

Three Western teams have played twelve games here, and the Rustlers have dropped them all. They'll have to drop three to Chicago and a like number to Brooklyn and the Phillies to beat the modern record. One thing's a cinch—they can't lose four to the Cubs, because only three are scheduled.

Mr. Chance is of a greedy nature. If Cincinnati, Pittsburg and St. Louis had lost one or two at the South End Grounds, he would have been content with two victories and one licking. But he won't be satisfied now with anything but a clean sweep. Of course, his wishes in the matter aren't going to make any difference to our side. We don't care whom we trim if only we can trim somebody.

Chance's Cubs Here.

Frank Pueth Schulte, the Cub's graceful right fielder, is tickled to death to be here for two reasons. One of them is that the right field fence is short and the other is that the left field fence is shorter. The wall in right makes no difference to Frank, for he pulls most of his homers in that direction, or did when we saw him last. Furthermore, the shorter the fence the less ground there is to cover. Mr. Schulte and Elizabeth Beck divided home run honors last year with ten apiece. At the rate they're going this season, they'll have fifty or more between them at the finish. Frank has been getting one or two in every town. Occupants of apartments on Columbus avenue, having read in the daily prints that he was coming, spent yesterday afternoon barricading their windows with iron bars.

The other two members of the Cubs' "bug outfield" are going back. James Sheckard is hitting only .746, or something like that, and A. Hoffman is a few points below. Hoffman's slump is accounted for by the fact that he is third in the batting order. When it comes his turn to bit, he is lost in admiration of what Sheckard and Schulte have just done and can't do himself justice.

Peaches Graham is certainly a hard luck champion. He passed the Winter in Florida with Sheckard and Richie as companions. It took him all Spring to recover and now, just as he has regained the use of his right mind, the two insects appear once more to hand him a relapse.

Four scribes are here with the champs. They are "Hugo" Fullerton, the well-known secretary of the Hillsboro W. C. T. U., Morning Sy Sanborn, of Springfield, Mass., H. DeKalb Johnson, Inspector of Penitentiaries, and Oscar Complete Reichow, the Boy Wonder.

Notes Gathered Between Innings

We'll never invite any Westerners here again if that's the way they all act.

The Rustlers' twelfth straight defeat was the Cardinals' sixth straight victory.

Mike Mowrey gave a swell exhibition of third basing all through the St. Louis series.

Scotty Ingerton pulled a great catch of Sallee's fly against the left field fence in the seventh.

Umpires Rigler and Finneran are now running the games here. If they are responsible for the speed with which yesterday's was played they will be welcome all Summer.

Some reckless party has posted a sign on the fence over the left field seats, in letters so small you can hardly read them, saying, "$100 extra to the batsman who hits me." You couldn't shoot a cannon that far.

Arnold Hauser was under the weather and Smith played shortstop for the Cards. He made his two assists cleanly and drove in one of the St. Louis runs.

Every Rustler who is caught smoking a cigarette is fined five bones. Manager Tenney figures that the pills don't help at all toward keeping the athletes in shape.

Hub Perdue is down on his luck. When he had a swell chance to make good as a big league pitcher, he went and chipped a piece of bone off the mainspring of his pitching arm and now the surgeons tell him he won't be able to work again this season. He is going to stick around for six weeks, resting his arm, but not his lower limbs, and then he'll see if the bread-winner is a come-back.

TENNIS PLAYERS MEET IN FINAL MATCH PLAY

J. H. MacVeagh of Exeter and G. C. Caner of St. Mark's school will meet to-morrow afternoon in the final match of the Harvard interscholastic lawn tennis championship tournament at Jarvis Field. MacVeagh defeated H. L. Carr, a schoolmate, on the court at Exeter yesterday, 6—3, 6—4, while on Jarvis Field, in the other semi-final match, Caner triumphed over Eben S. Draper, Jr., son of Ex-Governor Draper, 6—2, 6—2. MacVeagh has been a contestant for the title three times. Last year he was forced out in the third round of play, while in 1909 he was beaten by Edward H. Whitney of Wellesley High in the final match. The winner of to-morrow's match earns the privilege of playing for the national interscholastic championship at Newport in August.

DORCHESTER WANTS GAME.

As English High School has disbanded its baseball team, Dorchester High is left without a game for Saturday, June 3. Manager C. T. Wentworth is anxious to hear from school teams having that date open.

RECEPTION PLANNED FOR JOHNNY GLOVER

A reception will be tendered to Johnnie Glover, the popular South Boston light weight, next Thursday evening in Dahlgren Hall by the Mudtown Minstrels. The affair will be in charge of J. J. McNamara assisted by Thomas J. Collins. The list of talent will include the Fall Sisters, Alice Malone, James A. Morrison, Edward Mahoney, John Boland, Pat Mulloy, Miss Alice Lee, Dan Evans, Charles Mackie and Thomas O'Connor. "The two counts" will also be presented by Miss Evans, Wiley Carroll and Margaret P. Heapley under the supervision of Peter Wiley.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 23.—Ray Collins will probably be in the points for the victorious Red Sox this afternoon. Donovan and his men are elated over the result of yesterday's game and are going after the long end of this afternoon's contest with vigor. "We said yesterday," said Donovan, "that we would break that losing streak right here in St. Louis and here's to four straight."

There was some rapid fire work in the field on the part of both teams. The visitors exhibited a youngster, Riggert, in centre field, and he proved a revelation on two or three occasions. In the fifth inning, with a man on first, he chased over and made a one-handed catch of a low fly off Clarke's bat when it looked like a triple. Then in the seventh he utilized the tactics of a successful sprinter and annexed Laporte's short fly.

Tris Speaker, who left the team some days ago owing to his indisposition, has not put in appearance as promised and is still at his Texas home. Carrigan has shown himself to be a most competent first baseman and adds considerable life and assurance to the disjointed line-up.

Williams's hand is comparatively well, but Donovan will not use him for the present. Gardner continues to suffer from a severe attack of charley hoss and it will be some days before he enters the game.

HARVARD CREWS OFF TO TRAIN AT ITHACA

Harvard's varsity eight and substitutes, together with the freshmen eight and a coterie of managers, coaches, etc., leave Cambridge this evening at 6.40 o'clock for Ithaca, where the big races between the Cornell and Harvard freshmen will be held on Lake Cayuga Saturday afternoon. The crews will stay at Sheldrake Sanitarium on Lake Cayuga some twenty miles from Ithaca and during the stay at the lake they will hold morning and afternoon rows to keep in trim for the big race and accustom the coxes to the course.

The men going to Ithaca on the varsity are C. T. Abeles, G. H. Balch, R. W. Cutler, A. M. Goodale, G. P. Metcalf, R. M. Nelson, G. F. Newton, G. F. Stratton, A. Strong, L. Withington, Coach Wray and Managers Iselin and Lowell and Rig or Hart, while the freshman squad will be composed of the following: R. S. Boyd, F. K. Carver, F. L. Converse, G. H. Crocker, E. D. Curtis, W. T. Gardiner, L. H. Mills, J. S. Morgan, O. Reynolds, A. Taylor, F. H. Trumbull, Coach A[illegible] '11. Dr. W. E. Ladd, will join the squad at Ithaca to-morrow.

LEW CRIGER GETS BACK INTO BASEBALL GAME

MILWAUKEE, May 23.—After several months of negotiations Lou Criger, old running mate of Cy Young and one of the greatest backstops who ever donned a mask, has signed a Milwaukee contract. Criger, who was unconditionally released by the New York Highlanders last Winter, was offered a contract by Jimmy Barrett three months ago. Criger at that time told the Brewer boss that he intended to quit the game for good, but Barrett has won him over. Criger will not report until June 1, when the club comes home.

NEW PHENOM FOR BOSTON RED SOX

PENDLETON, Ore., May 23.—Playing an errorless game and hitting for .500, was the auspicious manner in which Tracey Baker of Pendleton, lately University of Washington's star first baseman, paid his farewell to amateur baseball here and set his eyes toward fame in John I. Taylor's Boston Americans.

As a concession to his home town, he came to Pendleton yesterday and donned the uniform of the Blue Mountain League, holding down first base for the Pendleton Buckaroos. This is the way the official scorer's sheet read:

	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.
Baker	2	2	1	9	0	0

Which, considering Tracey was playing against Porth, ex-Pacific Coast Leaguer, was not so bad. In addition, the new "phenom" made a sacrifice hit and stole three bases. He has a terrific right and covers more territory than any first baseman in any of the coast leagues is doing at present.

Baker makes the twenty first player from this little wheat town to graduate into major leagues.

N. E. LEAGUE IS AFTER BURKETT

The salary limit for clubs and playing managers came in for much discussion and was the subject of several resolutions at a special meeting of the New England League of Baseball Clubs, held at the American House. The meeting, which was called at the request of the Lawrence, Fall River, Brockton and Lynn clubs, was attended by representatives of all the clubs in the league but Worcester.

It had previously been voted by the league that all clubs should present a detailed salary list, the total of which should be within $2,200. It was declared at the meeting that all had done this but Worcester. That club was directed by the league to submit immediately a revised list fulfilling the requirements as to aggregate limits, on penalty of a daily fine of $25 and the loss of every game played until the order has been complied with.

Manager Burkett, who on the club's list was credited with a salary as playing manager of $100, was ordered to submit to the league a contract with his team calling for at least $200. It was further resolved by the meeting that if it is found at any time that a player has received any money from his club in addition to that called for by his salary contract, such contract shall be declared null and void, the player be declared a free agent, and the club declared to have forfeited every game in which he has played.

SCHOOL WILL HAVE TRACK MEET SATURDAY

There will be a track meet under the auspices of the Dedham High School Athletic Association on Stone Park next Saturday afternoon, in which athletes from Norwood High, Dedham High, Hyde Park and Needham will take part. Dedham High is picked to win the meet, as it has available several clever all around athletes who were on the 1910 track team. Henry S. Benson, the miler, who succeeded in getting third place in that event at the [illegible] scholastic games last week, [illegible] win the mile Saturday. Hyde Park, Needham and Norwood will be represented by many clever performers, who will give the Dedham High athletes a close run for the honors.

TUFTS-BATES GAME TO-DAY

MEDFORD, May 23.—With Davis, the Lynn High freshman, in the box, Tufts will meet Bates this afternoon on the home field. Davis did well against Vermont and Dean, and Tufts undergraduates are counting on a win over the Maine team. Two Cambridge boys, Danahy and Keaney, will appear for Bates. The game will be called at 4, with the following batting order:

Tufts—Hooper 3b, or l.f., Dickinson r.f., [illegible] Martin c.f., McKenna 1b, Hall l.f. or Qualters 3b, Proctor s.s., Roberts 2b, Bennett c., Davis p.

WENDELL OF SCHOOL CREW TAKEN SICK

Three crews are out on the Charles river under the direction of Coaches Graney and Grew. The boats are manned by first and second crews from Noble & Greenough, Roxbury Latin and Cambridge Latin. A change was made in the Roxbury Latin first crew, McKim going to Wendell's place at number two. Wendell is out of the game by orders of his physician because of a weak heart.

If a doctor should make up a prescription for you to order your cigars made by, he would probably describe the

Waitt & Bond BLACKSTONE Cigar (10c)

That is the principle we have applied for thirty odd years. Selected, aromatic, clear Havana for the filler—the true base of all good tasting cigars. The best of light domestic binder. A wrapper of filmy, neutral flavored Sumatra. Made by skilled men in a model, sanitary factory.

That's the kind of smoke normal men enjoy. If you don't enjoy it your taste is vitiated by harmfully heavy cigars. Smoking the Waitt & Bond BLACKSTONE will benefit your whole nervous system, including the pocket nerve.

THIS AD. IS ALL NEW

Although we have been 19 years in the tailoring business and have been advertising regularly most of that time, we always put across new advertising.

Here is the point!

If our advertising is new—while the advertising of the ready-made clothiers and the other tailors is always about the same old stuff—doesn't it stand to reason that we are new and different in all our business methods?

You can only judge us by our advertising—because you have never yet had us make you a suit of clothes.

Very well! Compare our advertising with that of other firms selling clothes—read their excuses for getting your trade—look in their windows filled with bait for the honest man who thinks other people are equally honest!

We run no mark-down sales any time. We can't make good clothes and sell them below our regular prices. We won't take out value in order to increase our trade.

We have no window forms—with specially made clothes hung on them. The effect is misleading. No man can look like a window form. The best thing we have to offer is our 19 years' reputation that we will satisfy you in every way or you can get your money back, on request, and no insults or cheap arguments with it.

Our prices for Suit (or Topcoat) run $15 to $25—depending entirely on the cloth you select and the quality of the trimmings. The work put into a $15 Suit is the same as that in a $25 Suit—the best we can get out of our own employees—right on the premises.

Yes! We will deliver you a Suit for Memorial Day if you get measured today or tomorrow. We always prepare for extra work just before a holiday—so your clothes will not be rushed in the making.

Again the Widow

More Reasons Why She Should Be Considered a Preferred Risk in Matrimony

THE opinion was expressed in this column [illegible] that the widow was the preferred [illegible] risk, [illegible] in the College of Matrimony she had learned many valuable pointers about how to steer a safe course between the jagged rocks that beset the course of domesticity.

Therefore the man who ships with her is more likely to have a pleasant and a safe journey through life than if he embarked with an inexperienced young girl who had never been married before.

In a word, that just as every woman who marries has to learn by experimenting how to run a house and manage a husband and keep off his corns, No. 2 reaped the benefits of No. 1's trials and tribulations. A prudent man with due regard for his comfort and digestion, always picks out an experienced cook who has learned her trade. Then why not marry an experienced wife? What?

The Widow Makes the Best Wife

A man reader of this paper, who is interested in this view of the subject, writes to know if this optimistic opinion of the widow as a wife applies to divorced women also and whether in marrying a divorced woman, he should inquire into the cause of the lady's divorce or not.

Any widow, grass or sod, is pretty sure to make a good wife, and generally speaking, no other woman in the world is quite as certain to be a man spoiler as the one who gets a good husband after being married to a brute who treated her so badly she was forced to divorce him. She will know, above all other women, how to appreciate tenderness, and kindness and consideration at their true worth.

The woman who has never been married before takes the goodness of a good husband for granted and as no more than she had a right to expect. She feels no special gratitude toward the man who filled her life with happiness and softness, but when a woman who has been badgered and browbeaten, and neglected, and humiliated by her first husband gets a second husband who cherishes her, she spends her days burning incense to him.

Some of the best wives I have ever seen were women who had been divorcees; and it was a touching and a piteous thing to see how blissful and how adoringly and humbly grateful they were to their husbands for little attentions that other wives never even noticed.

But a man would be an idiot to marry a divorced woman without finding out why she was divorced; just as he would be an idiot to marry any other woman without trying to ascertain all he possibly could about her character, her disposition and her qualifications for making a good wife, and the sort of a mother he wants for his children.

Certainly, a man would take a big risk who marries a woman whose husband had divorced her for unfaithfulness, for honor is honor and truth is truth, and the wife who has been disloyal to one man is very apt to be disloyal to another. Barring that, and the woman having been divorced because of the drug or liquor habit, there is no reason why the grass widow should not make as good a wife as any other.

Look at Her Temper Record

If I were a man, however, thinking of marrying a divorcee or a debutante, for the matter of that—what I would take the biggest look at would be her temper record. An attractive man, who is something of a love maker himself, might successfully rout all affinities, but no amount of human skill or ingenuity can circumvent a temper.

Moreover, neither men nor women commit big sins often; but a temper is a continual thorn in the flesh, a drop of bitterness that is always with you and always poisoning all the springs of life. A bad temper, a mean, nasty, fault finding disposition, will do more to wreck the happiness of a home than drunkenness, or any other cause on earth.

Amiability, cheerfulness and sanity are the three cardinal virtues in wives, and before any woman induced me to stand for her board bill for life she would have to show that this triple crown adorned her brow.

It is precisely because widows, have usually acquired philosophy and self-control through their experience of matrimony, that they make such desirable wives.

A final recommendation for the widow, as a wife, is that, in marrying her, a man knows always just what he is getting, whereas a young girl is problematic. The latter may turn out to be a good housekeeper, a good manager, cheerful, diplomatic, or she may not. But the widow has arrived. She is what she is going to be. She is the full blown rose, not the bud.

And the widow is generally a rose with its thorns clipped. DON'T FORGET THAT.

A Successful Wife

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALMENTS.

ESTHER CAREY, a poor girl whose parents are dead, leaving her with several young brothers and sisters to support, comes from Bracketsville, a suburb, to begin life in New York. She works her way up from a position as typewriter at $5 a week until at twenty-five she is head of her own office force in a Wall street skyscraper.

William Falsworth, a rich mining president, who has a neglectful wife, falls in love with Esther and asks her to elope with him to the West. She refuses and he becomes enraged. He learns that Stephen Kirkland, a nephew of the immensely wealthy Senator Bellars, is smitten with her and he threatens to kill Kirkland. He tells Esther that Kirkland, who is one of her patrons, is a reprobate and not fit for any good woman to associate with. Kirkland decides to live at Bracketsville and takes rooms at the Huntley. He takes great interest in Esther's brother Tommy, who has begun to show symptoms of rapid consumption.

Tommy dies in Kirkland's arms, telling his sister that "Mr Kirk is all right." Kirkland later asks Esther to marry him. He has kept sober for eight months, and declares no other woman in the world exerted such an influence over him.

Esther becomes engaged to Kirkland. Senator Belars calls and tries to persuade her to break off the engagement.

A Disappointed Sister

WHEN he had gone down the path and out of the gate like a runaway engine, Fanny came in from the dining room; her cheeks were red as fire.

"Esther Carey!" she cried, "do you mean to say that you are engaged to Mr. Kirkland?"

I was trembling so that I fell into a rocker.

"Yes, I am," I told her, "and I guess you know it now all right, don't you?"

"Oh, gracious!" she cried. "You don't mean to marry that stupid old bore, do you? After all his [illegible]! You must be crazy! Why, he'll [illegible] the first thing you know. You'll have him to support, and drunk at that."

She began to cry. "I never thought you would do such a thing, Esther. You flirted with a married man [illegible] I was scared to death, and now you are going to marry a drunkard. I thought you had more sense."

I told her to be quiet and go up-stairs; that as long as we stayed under the same roof I wouldn't hear a word from her about my life or about Mr. Kirkland. She shut up, but we were both mad, and she went out to eat supper with some friends and I had mine alone.

"The World Before Us"

Mr. Kirkland came in about 9 o'clock. I knew his long, slow step well. I wondered if his uncle had made a scene with him, and he had come to realize what a poor match I really was.

He took off his soft felt hat and his long coat, with the floating sleeves, and threw them on the rack in the hall. Several little parcels in his hands he held out to me, smiling.

"Where's Fanny?"

She was out to supper in Brackettsville, I told him.

"Here are some caramels for her, some marshmallows for me and here are some cigarettes and some matches."

I saw the danger-signals were up with him. He had a couple of bottles of ginger-ale.

"Let's have these opened, will you, Esther?" And he gave me a book. "You can cut the pages while I smoke."

We went into the parlor. For a long time we talked about general things. Then he said:

"My dear girl, now let's see what Fate can do to us. We have the world before us."

I understood right then and there that his uncle had turned him out, and I was on the point of asking him "Which way will you turn?" but I waited. He had crowds of rich and influential friends—his uncle's and his own. He drank the two bottles of ginger-ale and ate the whole box of marshmallows, smiling at the ceiling and at me through his smoke.

"Have you copied out the first act of my drama, Esther? Get it; I'll read it to you."

He read beautifully, gesturing and smoking hard between the scenes. Where it says,

"Lady of those wide brows—Lady of those white hands,
Men have gone down to hell for thee and up as high
For one long sight of thee; and men have dived
Down to the ocean's bed for one soft pearl" . . .

he said: "Esther, that is your portrait, you know. I shall finish this drama at the Huntley. I'm going to work fourteen hours a day." Then he threw up his arms and exclaimed: "Free! Free! Why, it seems too good to be true! I am much obliged to you, my dear, for opening my prison doors."

I saw by this that he meant to take up a new career and not try working in town.

"How do you like the verses?" he asked, like a child in eagerness. And I told him that I thought they were "perfectly fine." He seemed pleased.

"I rather think your beautiful sister doesn't like me, Esther."

I told him that Fanny was silly and only used to the Brackettsville people, and she couldn't appreciate an unusual man such as he was.

"Nonsense, my dear girl," he laughed. "I'm just like the rest, only a little more ridiculous! And the wonder in my mind is what in Heaven's name you see in me!"

And I smiled as I remembered it was just what his uncle had said on the other side.

Then he came over to where I was sitting, and took my sewing from my hands and drew up a chair by my side.

"Months ago I told you I had brought some work out for you to do, my dear. Well, I didn't leave it that day, but it's here now," and as he said this he seemed to put the work in my hands with his hands. "Do you want to undertake it? Do you want to undertake it?"

Not Afraid of Work

I wanted to burst out crying right there and then, but I just drew Stephen's head down on my shoulder as though he were a child, and I said:

"You know I am used to work, and I am not afraid of yours."

Fanny got engaged about this time to a young fellow in town. My sister didn't tell me she was engaged for a long time, but Charlie kept coming and coming. They sat in the dining room, and Mr Kirkland and I in the parlor.

Mr Kirkland was working awfully hard. He shut himself up in his little room at Mrs Huntley's, and the boarders could hear him walking up and down at night and reading out loud, and the entire house smelled of his black cigarettes. Mrs Huntley said she didn't mind. She thought he was a "genius," and so polite "if he did just throw his things down anywhere!"

"I guess you'll have pretty work cleaning up after him when you're married, Miss Carey! I don't see how you're ever going to train him."

One night, after the holidays, Charlie De Grott went early, and I was in bed when Fanny came to my room. Her cheeks were bright red.

"Esther, you are so cold and stiff and hard that I never know how to take you." She sat down at the foot of my bed. "But I've got to speak out now. Can't you crawl out of marrying Stephen Kirkland?"

She was so excited that I didn't want to speak sharply to her. "Don't let's discuss these things, Fanny, let's each of us go our own way."

"Goodness! I wouldn't care if we could do that. But Charlie won't marry me if you go and throw yourself away on Mr Kirkland."

I sat up in bed. I didn't say a single word. I tried to remember that she was the youngest, and that neither of us had had any mother. Fanny began to cry.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE FUTURE UNCERTAIN.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping company with a young man for the last two and a half years, but I cannot make up my mind to marry him because of our ages.

He is thirty years old and I forty-one. I try to break off keeping company with him, but he calls the same and his love seems not to change although I treat him very coldly.

Dear Miss Fairfax, kindly advise me what to do, as I have a great deal of respect for him.

Do you think, as the years roll on, he might grow tired of me?

ANXIOUS.

THE chances for continued happiness are not in favor of a woman marrying a man so much younger than herself.

However, there have been very successful marriages under these conditions.

No one who marries is certain of what the future will bring and I think with true, unselfish love to help you, you have every reason to be happy together.

DOESN'T PROVE LACK OF LOVE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am eighteen and have kept company with a young woman one year my senior for the past eight months. I asked her to accompany me to a concert. She refused three times in succession. When I asked her to go with me to a theatre she is always ready. I asked her to go with me to an entertainment and dance, but she asked her mother first.

It seems to me that she does not care for me.

Kindly advise me what I should do.

I. H. A.

SHE would enjoy any entertainment you suggested if she really cared for you. Of course it is only right that she [illegible] her mother's advice before accepting any invitation whatsoever.

Perhaps her mother has given her permission to go only to the theatre with you. This might explain her other refusals.

You might try some entirely new way of proving her friendship for you.

Swift & Company's sales of Fresh Beef in Boston for the week ending Saturday, May 20th, averaged 9.22 cents per pound.

YOU OWE AN APOLOGY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I had been keeping company with a young man for the last two years, and I loved him very dearly. Last Summer one of his friends told him something I said about him and since then we have not spoken.

One day last week he met me by accident in the street and spoke to me, but I never answered him. The next day this occurrence was repeated.

I now realize I love him and feel very sorry for not answering him. He told one of my friends that he would never speak to me again because I made a fool of him.

What should I do to try to win him back to me?

L. G.

YOU evidently offended him last Summer by what you said to his friend.

You owe him an apology.

I would either write or tell one of his friends how you have regretted your conduct toward him and that you hope your previous friendship may be once more renewed.

Lysander John Delivers a Talk To His Pillow Cushion Ladies.

"THIS is the day of scientific research; the time for delving into the unknown," said Lysander John Appleton to his pillow cushion ladies when he began his usual soliloquy the other evening. "I know, for I have heard my wife say so.

"We do not blindly accept a result these days; we delve into the cause."

The pillow cushion ladies looked as interested as any audience Lysander John ever has, and he proceeded.

"When my wife and daughter return from shopping they are always depressed. The unthinking would attribute this depression to fatigue, to limited means, to bargains they had to pass by or to the nerve-racking crowds.

"Not so, there is a psychical reason, and it is this:

"Every woman, who goes into a dry goods store, sees something she wants and can't have. This feeling gets into the atmosphere and collects above the counter that excited her envy. There it meets an accumulation of longings, envy and discontent from other women, and this black cloud fills the air and soaks into every woman who enters the store.

"I have become so familiar with the dim borderland between body and spirit that occult phenomena are no longer invisible to me, and I can see these clouds plainly.

"The one over the silk counter is heavy and black, while that over the huck towel department is so light it is almost invisible. No one ever gets saturated with envy, discontent and indescribable longings while at the huck towel counter.

"I can offer no suggestions for relief," said Lysander John, "other than to suggest to the women that they stay close to the huck towel department, and, if they value their peace of mind, if they wish their souls to vibrate in harmony, they must avoid any counter that puts their souls out of tune."

Thanking the pillow cushions for the attention they had paid him, Lysander John went to bed, all feeling of lonesomeness submerged in the knowledge that he was the only man in the world with an audience made up of women who never criticise or interrupt.

Day's Best Story

SENATOR BEVERIDGE, at a reception in Washington, smiled slightly as an ambassador passed whose coat front was one blaze of decorations.

"They look nice," said Senator Beveridge, "but, after all, they don't mean much."

He laughed.

"An actor," he resumed, "once played in a small German principality for a fortnight. The grand duke, to his disappointment, failed to decorate him. He mentioned this oversight at a court dinner to a chamberlain and the next day he was sent for.

"'My friend,' said the grand duke, handing the actor a box, 'here is something to remember me by.'

"The overjoyed actor departed, but his cab had hardly gone ten yards when, ordering it to return again, the actor was once more ushered into the grand duke's presence.

"'Oh, sir,' he said, 'I had to drive back. There are two crosses in the box.'

"'Oh, no matter,' said the grand duke, 'Give the other to the cabman.'"

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

C. S. S.: The secret of good health is really very simple. For that listless, exhausted feeling and to clear up your sallow, pimply skin, you should take a good tonic to rid your system of the impurities in the blood. You will find nothing better than this old-fashioned tonic. Get an ounce of kardene and one-half pint alcohol at any drug store, mix together, then add one-half cup sugar and hot water to make a full quart. A tablespoonful taken before each meal will soon clear your skin of pimples, sallowness and bring back the glow of health to your cheeks. You will recover your lost appetite and enjoy the feeling of perfect health. As a body-builder and health-restoring tonic I have never seen anything to equal this simple home-made remedy.

Mrs. H. T.: (a) To give your hair that soft, glossy silkiness so much admired, use twice a week the following hair tonic. Mix one ounce quinzoin in one-half pint alcohol, then add one-half pint cold water. This tonic promotes the health of the hair and scalp and keeps the hair soft and from getting stringy and matted. It stops the hair falling out and destroys dandruff almost instantly. For an itching scalp you will find it very refreshing.

(b) Yes, your husband will find spurmax lotion very fine for using after shaving.

Clara S.: If you want a smooth, rosy complexion that possesses the charms of youthfulness, you must not use powder on your face. It clogs up the skin pores, enlarges them and ofttimes causes wrinkles. The following recipe is much better than powder as it does not show on the skin or rub off so easily: Dissolve four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint hot water; when cool add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply to the skin, rubbing gently until dry. As a skin whitener and complexion beautifier you will find it simply grand. I find it excellent for removing and preventing freckles, skin pimples, roughness, sunburn and chapping in the wind. This lotion will take off the shine to your skin and remove that sallow, greasy look.

T. A. V.: Never shampoo with soap. The alkali in soap is too strong for the hair and will make it coarse, faded and streaky. It is also dangerous to use so-called "dry shampoos" as the powder simply clogs up the pores in the scalp, causing dandruff and falling, split hairs. To make a good, beneficial shampoo that will be absolutely satisfactory, simply dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. This makes a fine lather that removes thoroughly all dirt and excess oil. After shampooing rinse the hair with clear water. Your hair will dry very quickly and be so soft, fluffy and glossy. This shampoo is used generally by the best class of hairdressers, as it keeps the hair and scalp in such splendid condition and produces a fluffiness that lasts. It is invaluable for removing dandruff and scalp irritation. You can get canthrox at any drug store.

Grace M.: To beautify a complexion that is marred by large pores, roughness, blackheads, freckles and even wrinkles, you will find nothing better to use than this excellent, greaseless cream-jelly, which you can prepare at home at small expense. Stir together two teaspoonfuls glycerine, one ounce almozoin and one-half pint cold water and let stand a few hours before using. This cream-jelly will clear up your skin, removing all dirt from the pores, and in a short time your complexion will be clear, plump, velvety and unwrinkled. I know of nothing that will freshen up a complexion or that is as good a skin beautifier as this simple preparation.

A. T. X.: The presence of fuzz on the chin is extremely annoying, but if you try a delatone paste you can quickly remove it. With a little delatone, mix some water to form a thick paste and spread on the downy growth. Let remain two or three minutes, then rub off and wash the chin. While delatone costs a dollar an ounce, it seldom is necessary to apply it more than once.

Anna: Faded blonde hair can be restored to its youthful color and softness if you first wash it well and dry, then wash with a marlax tea. To make the tea, steep an ounce of marlax in a pint of water. After washing with the tea, rinse and dry. A few treatments produce the desired shade and give to the hair a silky fluffiness.

Maxine: To keep your eyes bright, sparkling and full of color and expression, simply get an ounce of crystos at any drug store; dissolve it in a pint of cold water and put a few drops in each eye twice daily. This tonic is very soothing and strengthening and will soon remove all signs of weakness, inflammation and make your eyes just as attractive and charming as ever. I find it splendid for treating granulated lids and as an aid to those who wear glasses.

Mrs. T. B.: If your fat does not yield readily to ordinary flesh reducers, try this one which I know has restored many to their former slender figures: Get four ounces of parnotis at your druggist's and dissolve it in one and one-half pints of hot water. When cool, strain and take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal. Parnotis is harmless and will not injure your health. I feel sure you will get splendid results from its use and will then recommend it to your friends.

As you no doubt remember, in our last pictures, the monkeys made Desmond and Gomgotz insensible by hitting them on the head with coconuts. Claude and Rosamond take advantage of their condition and tie them to the trunk of a fallen tree. The next question is what to do with them. At this moment a bright idea strikes our brave hero.

With Rosamond's help, he rolls the log and its burden of assorted villany to the edge of the bluff overlooking a waterfall that has Niagara backed off the boards for size. Did you ever shoot the chutes, gentle reader? Well, going over a waterfall tied to a log is something like that, only not so well advertised.

The wicked conspirators are now in the grip of the mighty whirlpool. Presently they will be dragged down to the depths below, and that will be about all for them. But if yonder vulture expects to make a feast off their remains, it will have a long time to wait before the whirlpool gives up its dead.

Beg pardon. Our mistake. The vulture is not looking for carrion, but is trying to escape from the wild men, who are hunting it with an aeroplane. By flying into the open end of the hollow log, it hopes to be safe from their spears. But then it will be drowned in the whirlpool, which is just as bad.

Those wild men are not used to throwing spears from an aeroplane. That explains why they miss the bird and hit the log instead. As they fly away, they carry the log and its living freight with them. Desmond and Gomgotz are saved from the whirlpool, but there is still a chance that the rope may break.

No such luck. The wild men have discovered the identity of their passengers and are hauling them up into the aeroplane. It's a cruel disappointment for brave Claude and beauteous Rosamond, but they are used to it. They'll get that villain some day, however—possibly to-morrow. You never can tell until you see the pictures.

Hereafter Desperate Desmond's thrilling adventures will be a regular feature of Sunday AMERICAN. Don't miss the wonderful deeds of Claude Eclaire and his Rosamond and their persistent foe, Desperate Desmond, in the Sunday AMERICAN.

The Green-Eyed Monster

Susanna Felt No Jealousy; She Merely Wanted to Protect Billy's Future.

By KENNETT HARRIS

SUSANNA was tatting, or "doing tatting," whatever the proper term may be. Somebody had given her the daintiest little old pearl inlaid tortoise shell squab of a shuttle and she had coaxed her mother to show her how. One foot was tucked under her and the other was swinging to the rhythm of a gay air that she hummed as she tatted.

"So everything is all right now," I said.

The shuttle stopped midway of a dart and Susanna's eyebrows arched questioningly.

"You shook hands and became fair-to-middling friends again," I elaborated, with equal positiveness.

"Oh," said Susanna, with a tolerant smile, "I suppose you mean Billy. Yes, everything is all right again. Has been for two days now." She sighed a little. "We're getting to be awfully hum-drum."

I assured her of my sympathy. "But I hardly think that Billy realizes it," I added.

"He really doesn't," she assented, with an emphatic nod. "But that's because of his absurd imagination. Do you know—Ouch!" She changed her position and kicked out energetically. "Pins and needles! There! Do you know that Billy—I wouldn't say it to anybody but you. I always believe in being loyal. But do you know that Billy is of a horribly jealous disposition?"

"I think that I should be, too, in Billy's place."

"I'm sure you wouldn't," Susanna declared. "You're too—" She paused and considered me. "I wonder!"

"What?" I inquired, with some interest.

Susanna Can Be Child-like

"What you were like when you were—very much younger than you are now."

Susanna can assume a remarkably child-like expression at times. It isn't the ordinary baby stare, either. There is a solemnity in its speculative depths, an impersonality—

"Objected to as immaterial, irrelevant and therefore incompetent," I said, and brought her back to the subject.

"It seems to me that jealousy is a very unworthy emotion," she announced seriously.

"But they say there can be no love without it," I remarked, brightly.

"It is a feeling that is based on selfishness and rooted in distrust," said Susanna. "It engenders strife, it blinds reason and stifles every impulse of generosity." rooted in distrust, engendering strife, blinding"—

A sofa pillow knocked the tablets from "'It is the green-eyed monster,' and doth prey'"—I began.

"I mean it," Susanna declared, and she looked quite as if she did.

"You never seem to think that I can be in earnest," she complained.

"There you wrong me, my dear," I said. "I have seen you very much in earnest. Miss Katie"—

"I wasn't." She stamped her foot.

"Pins and needles," quoth I.

"I wasn't," she reiterated, but more mildly. "I told Billy so at the time. I hadn't the least feeling"—

"Oh, oh!"

"Of jealousy?"

"I understand, perfectly."

"You don't anything of the sort. You are conceited, like all men, and you think you do; but I can assure you that I felt far above any mere feeling of jealousy. I wrote Billy a letter and I told him"—

"I know," I interrupted.

"What do you know?" demanded Susanna.

"An Unworthy Emotion"

"You told him that jealousy was an unworthy emotion, based on selfishness, my hands, at this point, and Susanna was the quicker in the ensuing scramble.

"I'll just keep them now," she said, and thrust them into the mysterious little pocket in her petticoat. Then she tatted industriously.

"But I'd really like you to understand the position I took," she said, presently.

I told her that I would give anything to know what it was.

"I felt that if Billy honestly preferred her to me it was my duty to rise above personal considerations. I didn't attempt to conceal from myself that I loved Billy, but it was that very fact that made me think of his happiness before my own."

I could hardly restrain a murmur of admiration.

"And I didn't deceive myself with the hope that time would enable me to forget, or that I might find shelter and consolation in the honest affection of another man."

"You wrote to Billy?"

"Well, I think I mentioned something of the kind," admitted Susanna. "But the point was that I could see that love must be free and untrammelled, and that, if Billy's love had gone from me, Billy was not to blame. If he felt happier—I mean if he could be happier with Katie than with me, I would gladly release him. Gladly, mind. I should be glad because Billy was happy, just as I would like Billy to be glad if I happened to prefer some one else to him."

"Just exactly as glad," I commented. "But that was another letter that you didn't send. Billy never saw that letter."

"I Felt That Way," She Said

"But I really and truly felt that way. And it's exactly and precisely and identically the way I would feel to-day."

"But you didn't give Billy half a chance," I told her relentlessly. "You got up a nice little flirtation with Dick Hughes, and at the same time exerted every fascinating trick that you ever knew, or could invent, to reclaim the wandering, wavering"—

"Billy didn't wander or waver for an instant and you know he didn't," Susanna stormed, with tears in her lovely eyes.

"They why"—

"I know she wouldn't make Billy happy. I knew she wasn't the sort of girl to make him anything but miserable. That's why. If it had been a nice girl—but Katie isn't nice. She's mean and deceitful, and snaky, and sneaky, and she makes up horribly and she's a hateful, hateful, silly, scheming, faded, ogling"—

"Pins and needles, Susanna, my dear," I said.

And then Susanna laughed.

New Drug That Quickly Removes These Homely Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as a new drug, othine—double strength, has been discovered that is a positive cure for these homely spots.

Simply get one ounce of othine—double strength, from Houghton & Dutton or Riker-Jaynes Drug Co., and apply a little of it at night, and in the morning you will see that even the worst have begun to disappear, while the light freckles have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful, clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double-strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

The De Bercy Affair

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALMENTS.

MADAMOISELLE DE BERCY, a young woman of great beauty, has been slain in her rich apartments in the Feldisham Mansions. Rupert Osborne, her wealthy American suitor, is believed by all London to be the murderer. Scotland Yard, however, believes him innocent and advises him to hide in Tormouth, a seaside village.

Furneaux, the great detective, is unaccountably agitated when assigned to the case, and his chief, Inspector Winter, resolves to watch him.

Furneaux learns from Hylda Prout, Osborne's secretary, that a dagger and axe-head like the one used to kill Miss De Bercy were missing from his private museum immediately after the murder. There are those who say Osborne was seen near the house about the time of the crime, although his friends come forward with an alibi.

Winter, tracking Furneaux, his own subordinate, learns that he was in Osborne's house and in the museum the very day of the murder.

Detective Clarke, also on the case, suspects that anarchists had something to do with the crime. Disguised as a Russian, he steals papers from an anarchist, Janoc. They are in turn stolen from him by a Frenchman, who turns out to be Furneaux. Strangely, the letters are from Osborne in Tormouth and addressed to Clarke. This amazes Clarke. They deny that Mlle. De Bercy was connected with the anarchists, except to appear as one in a play. A letter from another source tells how Mlle. De Bercy was marked for death as a traitoress by the anarchist society.

Furneaux goes again to visit Hylda Prout and plays upon her jealousy. He also see Mrs. Bates, Osborne's housekeeper, who tells him that she saw her employer, or rather his back as he ascended the stairs at his home, the evening of the murder and at the hour when he was supposed to have been at the Ritz Hotel. Furneaux then leaves the house.

The Man in the Cab

HE looked at his watch, took a cab to Waterloo, and while in the vehicle again studied that scrawled "Rosalind" on Osborne's letter to Janoc.

"A trip to Tormouth should throw some light on it," he thought. "If it can be shown that he is actually in love—again—already"— —and as he so thought, the cab ran out of St. James street into Pall Mall.

"Look! quick! There—in that cab!" hissed a man at that moment to a girl with whom he was lurking in a doorway deep under the shadow of an awning near the corner. "Look!"

"That's him!"

"Sure? Look well!"

"The very man!"

"Well of all the fatalities!"

The cab dashed out of sight, and the man—Chief Inspector Winter—clapped his hand to his forehead in a spasm of sheer distraction and dismay. The woman cook, Bertha Seward, the same whom Inspector Clarke had one morning seen in earnest talk with Janoc under the pawnbroker's sign in St. Martin's Lane.

Winter walked away from her, looking on the ground, seeking his lost wits there. Then suddenly he turned and overtook her again.

"And you swear to me, Miss Seward," he said gravely, "that that very man was with your mistress in her flat on the evening of the murder?"

"I would know him anywhere," answered the slight girl, looking up into his face with oblique Chinese eyes that were always half shut as if shy of light. "I thought to myself at the time what a queer, perky person he was, and what working eyes the little man had, and I wondered who he could be. That's the very man in that cab, I'm positive."

"And when you and Pauline went out to the Exhibition you left him with your mistress, you say?"

"Yes, sir. They were in the drawing room together; and quarreling, too, for her voice was raised, and she laughed twice in an angry way."

At Tormouth

"Quarreling—in French? You didn't catch—?"

"No, it was in French."

Inspector Winter leant his shoulder against the house-wall, and his head slowly sank, and then all at once dropped down with an air of utter abandonment, for Furneaux was his friend—he had looked on Furneaux as a brother.

Furneaux, meantime, at Waterloo was taking train to Tormouth, and his fixed stare boded no good will to Rupert Osborne.

Furneaux reached Tormouth about three in the afternoon, and went boldly to the Swan Hotel, since he was unknown by sight to Osborne. It was an old-fashioned place, with a bar opening out of the vestibule, and the first person that met his eye was of interest to him—a man sitting in the bar-parlor, who had "Neapolitan" written all over him—a face that Furneaux had already marked in Soho. He did not know the stranger's name, but he would have wagered a large sum that this queer visitor to Tormouth was a bird of the Janoc flock.

"What is he doing here?" Furneaux asked himself; and the only answer that suggested itself was: "Keeping an eye on Osborne. Perhaps that explains how Janoc got hold of the name 'Glyn.'"

When he was left alone in the bedroom which he took, he sat with his two hands between his knees, his head bent low, giving ten minutes' thought by the clock to the subject of Anarchists. Presently his lips muttered:

"Clarke is investigating the murder on his own account; he suspects that Anarchists were at the bottom of it; he has let them see that he suspects; and they have taken alarm, knowing that their ill repute can't bear any added load of suspicion. Probably she was more mixed up with them than is known; probably there was some quarrel between them and her; and so, seeing themselves suspected, they are uneasy.

"Hence Janoc wrote to Osborne in Clarke's name, asking how much Osborne knew of her connection with Anarchists. He must have managed somehow to have Osborne shadowed down here—must be eager to have Osborne proved guilty. Hence, perhaps, for some reason, the presence of that fellow below there in the parlor. But I, for my part, mustn't allow myself to be drawn off into proving them guilty. Another, another, is my prey!"

He stood up sharply, crept to his door, and listened. At the upper part of the house was as still as the tomb at that hour. Mr. Glyn—Osborne's name on the hotel register—was, Furneaux had been told, out of doors.

He passed into a corridor, and, though he did not know which was Osborne's room, after peering through two doorways discovered it at the third, seeing in it a cane with a stag's head which Osborne often carried.

He slipped within, and in a moment was everywhere at once in the room, filling it with his presence, ransacking it with a hundred eyes.

In one corner was an antiquated round table in mahogany, with a few books on it, and under the books a copper-covered writing-pad. In the writing-pad he found a letter—a long one, not yet finished, in Osborne's hand, written to "My dear Isadore."

The Letter

The first words on which Furneaux's eyes fell were "her unstudied grace . . . . . . her walk has the undulating smoothness that one looks for in some untamed creature of the wild. . . . . You are a painter, and a poet, and a student of the laws of beauty. Well, knowing all that, I still feel sure that you would be conscious of a certain astonishment on seeing her move, she moves so well. I confess I did not know, till I knew her, that our human flesh could express such music. Her waist is small, yet so willowy and sinuous that it cannot be trammeled in those unyielding ribs of steel and bone in which women love to girdle themselves. For her slimness she is tall, perhaps, what you might think too tall until you stood by her side and saw that her freedom of movement had deceived you. Nor is she what you would call a girl: her age can't be a day under twenty-three. But she does not make a motion of the foot that her waist does not answer to it in as exact a proportion as though the Angel of Grace was there with measuring-tape and rod. If her left foot moves, her waist sways by so much to the left; if her right, she sways to the right, as surely as a lily on a long stalk swings to the will of every wanton wind. But, after all, words cannot express the poetry of her being. With every step, I am confident her toe in gliding forward touches the ground steadily, but so zephyr-lightly, that only a megaphone could repeat it to the ear. And not only is there a distinct forward bend of the body in walking, but with every step her whole being and soul walks—the mere physical movements are the least of it! And her walk, I repeat, has the security, the lissome elegance of the leopard's—her eyes, her mouth, her hair, her neck, those of a Naiad balanced on the crest of a curling wave. . . . .

"Ah-h-h! . . ." murmured Furneaux on a long-drawn breath. "'A Naiad'! Something more fairy-like than Rose de Bercy!" Soon I shall see her dance—dance with her! and then you shall hear. There's a certain Lord Spalding a little way from here who I know through a local doctor, and he is giving a dance at his Abbey two evenings hence—she and her mother are to be there. She has promised me that she will dance, and I shall tell you how. But I expect nothing one whit more consummate in the way of charm from her dancing than from her ordinary motions. I know beforehand that her dancing will be to her walking what the singing of a lovely voice is to its talking—beauty moved to enthusiasm, but no increase of beauty; the moon in a halo, but still the moon. What, though, do you think of me in all this, my dear Isadore? I have asked myself whether words like "fickle," "flighty," "forgetful," will not be in your mind as you read. And if you are not tolerant, who will be? She, the other, is hardly cold yet in her untimely tomb, and here am I . . . shall I say in love? say, at any rate, enraptured, down, down, on my two bended knees. Certainly, the other was bitter to me—she deceived, she pitilessly deceived; and I see now with the clearest eyes that love was never the name of what I felt for her, even if she had not deceived. But, oh, such a fountain of pity is in me for her—untimely gone, cut off, the cup of life in her hand, her lips purple with its wine—that I cannot help reproaching this wandering of my eye from her. It is rather shocking, rather horrible. And yet—I appeal to your sympathy—I am no more master of myself in this than of something that is now happening to the Emperor of China, or that once happened to his grandfather.

Liberty's Tombstone

A MAGAZINE editor at the Authors' Club in New York was talking about H. G. Wells.

"Wells is now the foremost English novelist," he said. "Strange that a man so talented should misjudge us as he does. When he was over here, you know, he found fault with everything.

"One day at lunch, getting tired of his attacks on the tyranny of our trust and our bosses, I said with a sneer:

"'Well, at least, Mr. Wells, you must admit the grandeur of the magnificent Statue of Liberty that rears its proud head above our harbor?'

"'Oh, yes,' said Mr. Wells. 'You have the same custom as we—you rear your finest statues to the dead.'"

Some Orange Recipes

THE orange crop has been good this year and oranges are now in market at very reasonable prices. The use of this delicious fruit to the housewife for desserts and preserves is not as frequent as it should be. In England, where oranges are not as plentiful or as good as they are here, they are used a great deal, and the following recipes will doubtless help some good housekeeper to add materially to her store of good things:

ORANGE MARMALADE

Slice thinly twelve oranges and two lemons and remove the pips. To every pound of pulp allow three pints of cold water. Let it stand for twenty-four hours, then boil till the chips are tender and clear. Leave it till next day. To every pound of boiled fruit allow a pound and a quarter of lump sugar. Boil, stirring constantly, till the syrup jellies and the chips are quite clear. The great point in making home-made marmalade is to be careful to slice the fruit very thinly.

SEVILLE ORANGE PASTE

Wipe and pare in the thinnest possible strips some orange-rinds, and throw them into plenty of boiling water. When they are quite tender, put them on to a sieve to drain; press the water from them a little, and before they are quite cold pound them to the smoothest paste and blend thoroughly with them as much castor sugar as can possibly be mixed with them. Roll the mass out extremely thin, and with a very small tin-cutter form it into cakes or leaves, or any other shapes, and then dry them in a very gentle oven. Store in close-fitting tins as soon as cold. A little prepared ginger may be added in the pounding when it is liked.

ORANGE JELLY

To each pint of juice allow one pound of loaf sugar. To every fifty oranges allow the juice of three lemons and peel of one. Wash the oranges, grate off the outer rind, cut them in halves and after squeezing out the juice weigh them and put them into a stewpan with water in the proportion of one quart to every pound of oranges. Boil them gently for half an hour, or until the water is reduced to rather less than half; then strain through muslin. Add the juice from the oranges and lemons and run all through a fine cloth. Measure the juice, and to each pint allow one pound of sugar. Pour into small jars, and cover with paper.

ORANGE BRANDY.

This is a popular liqueur and easily made. Peel thinly three oranges and put the peel in a wine bottle with the juice of two of the oranges and the juice of one lemon; make a syrup of four ounces of sugar candy, dissolved in a gill of water, add this to the peel and juice in the wine bottle. Let the syrup get quite cold, fill up with brandy, cork tightly, and leave for a month or six weeks, then strain into a clean bottle, add more sugar candy if necessary, cork and seal, storing a year before use.

ORANGE GIN.

This is also excellent, and I recommend my readers to make a brew of it whilst the oranges are in perfection. Into half a gallon of the strongest gin put the thin rinds of nine oranges and three-quarters of a pound of finely powdered sugar candy. Let the gin remain on the peel and candy in a stone jar for a month (the jar must be shaken up occasionally), then drain it off and bottle for use. This may be drunk at once, but it is improved by keeping on the peel for one year. This is a very simple way of making this liqueur.

Mistake in Creation

A CERTAIN skeptic was contending before a minister that the work of the Creator was manifestly imperfect. "Have you not yourself," he asked, "noted defects in the human organism, for instance, and thought of better contrivances?"

To his delight there was the frank reply, "Why, yes, I really think I have."

"In what respect?"

"Why," drawled the parson, "you see, when I want to shut out anything disagreeable from my sight, I can draw down my eyelids, and it's all done; but, unfortunately, I haven't any flaps on my ears."

Free conversation ceased at about that point.

INFLAMMATION AND PAIN

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I was troubled for a long time with inflammation, pains in my side, sick headaches and nervousness. I had taken so many medicines that I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to health. I have no more pain, my nerves are stronger and I can do my own work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me after everything else had failed, and I recommend it to other suffering women."—MRS. WM. SEALS, 605 W. Howard St., Creston, Iowa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

In almost every neighborhood you will find women who have been restored to health by the Pinkham medicines. Inquire among them and see. Many would not have a testimonial published, but would talk about their cure to another woman.

Strawberry Ice Cream

There are many flavors for ice cream, but rich, creamy milk is always the important ingredient. To have it smooth, rich and delightfully flavored use Borden's Evaporated Milk as per the following:

RECIPE

Dilute one and one-half cans Borden's Evaporated Milk with enough water to fill a quart measure. Mix a pint of this milk and one cup of sugar. Add another cup (scant) sugar and the juice of one and a half quarts strawberries; mix in the remaining half of the milk, pour in a freezer and freeze. Beat thoroughly and stand aside to harden.

PLEADS GUILTY IN DEATH CASE

PROVIDENCE, May 23.—Gabriel Furoritasco, twenty-nine years old, who was recently arrested in Camden, N. J., for a murder committed here, was emphatic in declaring his guilt in the District Court. The man pleaded "guilty" in a decided tone three times through an interpreter. Furoritasco is charged with stabbing Francisco Guiliano during a quarrel over the ownership of a bottle of beer at a celebration January 7, a few minutes after Mayor Henry Fletcher had left the hall.

SEES DANGER IN MELLEN'S PLAN

Edward Kemble, a former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the AMERICAN calls public attention to the danger of further legitimizing or validating the acts of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Corporation in its efforts to obtain a complete monopoly of railroad transportation in New England and also points out pitfalls that corporation may put, if possible, in the pathway of the Grand Trunk line's entry to Boston. The letter follows:

Editor, Boston AMERICAN:

It is understood that the Massachusetts Railroad Commission has reported in favor of granting the petition of the Boston & Maine Railroad—which is the New York, New Haven & Hartford Corporation—for permission to buy and absorb its leased lines. Granting such a permission should not be seriously considered. It is high time to stop granting any privileges to this corporation. The State has, for years, pursued the policy of giving over its transportation body, member after member, into the hands of the railroad power; even when a cut has been taken in advance of permission, it has subserviently confirmed the act; and now, apparently, the whole framework having been disposed of, it is asked to permit the tying up of the arteries.

This report of the Railroad Commission should not be adopted. Granting the leasing privilege has been a grievous error; it has resulted not only in no good, but in positive injury to the State; it has brought additional and unnecessary burdens upon her people, and created a dangerous aggregation of corporate power. To permit the buying of these leased properties, will be the finishing stroke in an unfortunate policy. These leases will expire some day; why not let the next generation have an opportunity to decide for itself whether it will be best to concentrate, or to scatter, railroad power. Massachusetts is bottled up now; and will always remain so if this last projected movement is permitted.

Is Monopoly Move.

Think of it! The entire transportation interest of this Commonwealth in the power of one corporation; her business prosperity, even her business life, subject to the mercy of one man; to the caprices of one man's will! The destiny of this grand old State confided to one man! When the victim is secured and bound, what is it to prevent the torture? No legislation can prevent it then. People must live, and in order to live, must pay the tribute demanded.

This seems incredible for Massachusetts; but it is a situation which she faces to-day. It is folly for complaisant legislation to reason that what is for the interest of the railroad power will be for the interest of the people. That doctrine is foolish, and will be fatal. This power may readily take more than justice and equity would give it, without destroying its own interests, while the people are compelled to give up that which belongs to them and should remain with them, and add to their comfort and their prosperity. Why not leave to the next generation the power and the privilege either to confirm, and thus establish forever, this railroad oligarchy—or to smash it?

Laughs at "Regulation."

One of the railroad commissioners while before a legislative committee recently was asked if he favored monopoly; he replied that he "saw no objection to it if it was regulated." A monopoly cannot be regulated; once established, it is not subject, it is master; and the only way to be rid of it is to break it then. How?

The Legislature had before it a resolve inviting the Grand Trunk Railroad to come into Boston. Commercial bodies have already taken action to this effect. It will be a grand move if we get that line here as an independent line. It will not give us a very direct connection with the interior of the country; but we want it; we will welcome it. If it can come as an independent line, we will hail it with all hands up! But if it comes here, it is tolerably safe to say—unless the Legislature is very careful indeed—it will come only on such terms as the New York, New Haven & Hartford management may dictate; and if it comes under such conditions, it will be of little more value to us than it is at present.

However, there is now an indication of returning reason. After years of resolving and declaiming and merging and consolidating, and dreaming of piers and docks, and gazing at the harbor, and trying to push the cart before the horse and being "mixed" all the time, the prospect is better. If we can get the horse before the cart, and pull together, we shall begin to move forward, and business will grow, and piers and docks will grow with it. Export business will be done here when it is possible to do it here, and steamships can't be kept away where business is to be had.

Real Work for Boston.

Let us disregard the fallacies of "consolidation," and Mellenism," and "a regulated monopoly," and the recent delusion of "opportunity" founded on the fancied decay of New York. Opportunity is largely the exercise of common sense; the success of opportunity is the applying of intelligent force at the proper point.

A somewhat elaborate article recently published by an evening newspaper, suggesting some ways for getting the Grand Trunk into Boston, is to be heartily welcomed as indicating the turning of public attention in the right direction; but unfortunately, near its conclusion, the writer weakens his whole statement by saying he has faith in the delusions of "a monopoly regulated by law," then, almost immediately adds, "the fear of a really potential competition has a salutary effect upon and railroad service;" thus begging the question.

"Independent railway lines, regulated by law," is the summum bonum of Boston's needs.

EDWARD KEMBLE.

Wenkham, May 19.

RATES CUT; FREIGHT WAR IS THREATENED

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A freight-rate war among railways operating in the territory east of Chicago and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers—classification territory—is likely to be precipitated by the action of the Delaware and Hudson Company in filing with the Interstate Commerce Commission a tariff making a reduction in the class freight rates between New York city and Chicago.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

The fact that the Congressional investigation of the Steel Trust began to-day caused some selling. There was rather liberal profit-taking and stock could be had in good volume.

The market acts as though the really big people had sold enough on the advance of the past week to put them in funds to prevent any reaction of importance. That there will be no reactions of importance is the expressed belief of the people making the market. Should any further reaction take place as a result of the Congressional investigation it will be taken advantage of to pick up bargains.

The decree against the American Tobacco Company in the lower court is beginning to attract considerable attention in the business world, because it contains the very theory of "reasonableness" on which the decision in the Oil case hinged. The lower court in deciding against the company said in referring to the constituent concerns that are charged with conspiracy that "if any of said last named defendants can hereafter confirmatively show the restoration of reasonably competitive conditions such defendant may apply to this court for a modification, suspension or dissolution of the injunction herein granted against it. This shows that the doctrine of reasonableness was not invented by Chief Justice White, and it is generally believed the tobacco company will be able to show it has restored a condition of reasonable restraint of trade.

Carnegie's conduct the past year has been such as to lead a careful observer to conclude that he would like to see something done to the Steel Trust that would let him seize the properties in exchange for his bonds. In public statements he has reversed all his previous theories regarding the steel business. It will be interesting to see what he tells the Congressional committee, particularly whether he tells the Congressmen that he threatened to put the Pennsylvania railroad into receivership, and that J. P. Morgan was practically "held up" and forced to buy the Carnegie Steel Company and all the other steel plants of the country to prevent an industrial disaster of monumental importance.

Persons close to J. P. Morgan privately express the hope that this investigation will show Mr. Carnegie in his true light, as well as prove to the public the intrinsic value of Steel. It is also likely to prove that the government, in spite of its many investigations, has been unable to find anything to justify prosecution of the trust. Conclusion of the investigation is expected to leave the Steel Trust with its innocence widely advertised and its values officially determined by Congressional decrees. This will encourage investment buying of the stock.

Even the copper situation looks brighter. It could not be worse, but the bright feature is that there is a disposition among the great copper magnates to get together and work for the upbuilding of the industry instead of continuing the wild policy of destroying it by limiting production. The new and enlightened idea is to promote consumption of copper and thereby create a legitimate demand that will use up the surplus and advance the price to about 14 cents. The United States Metals Selling Company has been rescued from the golf playing management. All that is needed is a responsible man on whom all interests can unite as head of a big combination. What the industry needs is a selling genius, and this narrows the field down to Daniel Guggenheim and Adolph Lewisohn. These two men have been business enemies for many years, but it is now said by their friends that Mr. Guggenheim is willing to support Adolph Lewisohn as the head of a movement such as is needed. With the Guggenheim support Mr. Lewisohn could command the following of practically the entire industry.

Possibilities with respect to separation of their coal properties by the anthracite railroad companies probably will not, in Reading's case, be given as much consideration as in the case of the other roads. The Reading, financially, is constructed somewhat differently in that the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company is not the owner or a stockholder in the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company, but both these companies are controlled through stock ownership by the Reading Company, which is purely a holding company. The Reading Company, moreover, has a general mortgage secured on both its railroad and coal properties.

STEEL WEAK IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 23.—Weakness in United States Steel at the opening of the stock market to-day attracted considerable attention. Wall Street was disposed to attribute this to hesitancy by railroads to place rail orders rather than to the talk of a congressional investigation of the corporation. The market opened moderately active, with a continuance of the sagging tendency which developed late yesterday. There was considerable realizing, but this was so skilfully manipulated as to dissemble the traces of real pressure.

Missouri Pacific was weak and traders thought they could see evidence of liquidation in this stock. Oversubscription of new notes was not regarded as a bull factor. The value of the notes was not impeached, but it was argued that this increase of obligation would lessen the future prospect of dividends.

Union Pacific seemed to be for sale in some quantity. Atchison opened off ⅛, Steel off ¼, Chesapeake & Ohio up ⅛, Erie up ¼, St. Paul off ⅛, Steel off ⅛, Union Pacific off ⅝, Pennsylvania up ⅛, Amalgamated Copper up ¼ and Reading off ⅛.

The curb market opened steady. American shares in London reacted to-day, and there was a weakening in tone, but traders did not hold it to be significant, attributing it to the reflection of the sagging tendency in New York. Mexicans in London were weak.

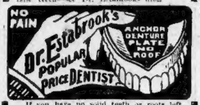
STATEHOOD VOTE TO-DAY.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The resolution admitting Arizona and New Mexico to immediate Statehood, but requiring a referendum in each State on certain features of their respective constitutions, will be taken up in the House to-day.

No More False Teeth

Dr. Estabrooks can, at popular prices, replace the lost teeth by the use of his well-known Alveolar system of dentistry without the use of an old-style plate or old-style crowns or bridges. Don't let any dentist extract your teeth or make you a set of false teeth—see Dr. Estabrooks first.



If you have no solid teeth or roots left, the Anchor Denture Plate is the best for you. Unlike the ordinary set of teeth, Dr. Estabrooks' Anchor Denture Plate is roofless. This construction allows you to talk and taste perfectly. It is cool, comfortable, clean and fits better. It never drops, shifts or displaces to cause wearer embarrassment.

PAINLESS EXTRACTION FREE

No charge for examination or advice.
People who have sensitive teeth to be filled or extracted can come here with absolute confidence that they will Not Be Hurt in the slightest.
Set Teeth $5. Gold Crowns $3. Fillings 50c.

Money to Loan.

SEVEN REASONS
Why you should borrow from us: 1—You need no security, just your plain note; 2—You do not need an indorser; 3—We will forfeit $100 to a charitable institution if we notify your employer or friends of your intention to borrow from us; 4—You can get your loan at once; 5—You can pay it back in small payments; 6—You don't ride in an elevator where you are liable to meet your employer or friends; 7—Last, but not least, we only charge you 1 per cent. interest on each $1 you borrow from us up to $100, with a written agreement not to charge you said interest if you are dissatisfied. Come and talk it over in our private office. WAGE EARNERS' LOAN ASS'N, 10 State st.

People Say That It Is Cruel to Eat Meat—Using Animals for Food

It Would Be Infinitely More Cruel Not to Eat the Animals. Man's Meat Eating Is a Blessing to Lower Forms of Life.

Copyright, 1911, by American-Journal-Examiner

Kind-hearted people who call themselves vegetarians and want others to stop eating meat use cruelty to animals among their arguments.

They say it is outrageous to end the lives of these animals and use them for food.

We refer them to an article by Ella Wheeler Wilcox recently published in this newspaper. Mrs. Wilcox, whom we proudly proclaim as our travelling genius and most advanced thinker, has been recently in India. She has now returned to America, and soon will be telling her readers here all about her adventures.

In the article quoted she said:

> Travelling through the Oriental lands one is reminded frequently of the immortal line:
> "It is not all of life to live, or all of death to die."
>
> Thousands of animals die a hundred deaths daily in Japan, China, India and Ceylon through the unwillingness of Brahmins, Buddhists and Mohammedans to take life.
> In Rangoon I saw about the famous old Golden Pagoda a dozen dogs in advanced stages of mange—one-half paralyzed and others blind. And yet these fanatical people will throw them food and permit them to die by inches and deceive themselves with the idea that this is kindness.
> A traveller told of seeing an aged elephant at or near Madras lying on the ground, unable to stand or walk, hopelessly ill and suffering, yet kept alive by the natives. And this is called "kindness to animals."
> A merciful veterinary surgeon sent through the East with crates of chloroform and authority to dispose of all the useless sick animals would be a blessing to men and beasts.

It should be remembered that every animal that is not killed by man, or suddenly destroyed by one of its natural enemies, DIES A MISERABLE AND UNHAPPY DEATH.

You may have seen some poor old horse dying by the roadside, half starved, because nobody had the energy to shoot it, or some sheep in the field, lying on its side, attacked by the parasite in the brain that makes motion impossible.

Such animals die miserably. As they die, practically all of the animals that we eat would die if they were not killed by man.

Oxen, sheep, swine, chickens and all the others that are transformed into human material die sudden, practically painless deaths. They are far happier than the miserable animals in India, a land in which foolish sentimentalism forbids taking the life of an animal, but does not at all forbid the animal to die slowly with the most intense suffering.

We offer this as some comfort to the vegetarians, who weep at the thought that anybody should eat meat—yet walk around on shoes made from the skins of the beasts.

We also call the attention of conditions in India to the good-hearted people that are so busy with the question of vivisection.

All the animals under vivisection in the United States put together do not suffer as much as one of those poor, miserable, inferior creatures dying slowly of disease and hunger. Vivisection is shocking to every kind heart, and always will be. And, let us hope, it will soon end with the completion of scientific knowledge which will justify its ending.

Whoever really wants to defend animals and prevent suffering need not disturb the scientists fighting disease in order to do good work.

Hundreds of thousands of men and boys are now fishing all over this country, using frogs as live bait.

Any one of them will tell you how the frog squeals when he is put on the hook, how it is desirable to hook him in such a way that he will remain alive a long time, and continue kicking with his feet to attract the fish.

Since the vivisectionists tell us that a dog can suffer as much as a woman, do you suppose they will admit that a frog can suffer as much as a dog?

Why not concentrate some energy on forbidding the hooking of live frogs on a fish hook? It is not necessary. Fish can be caught in other ways. And for one animal put upon the vivisecting table, studied by scientists under the influence of anaesthetic and without suffering pain, thousands upon thousands of frogs and other miserable creatures are tortured daily in the name of sport.

The War on the House Fly

That indefatigable doctor, Crumbine, of Kansas, who started the war on the fly in that State, now comes out with two methods to keep that disease-breeding pest away from the home and the stable. Flies, he asserts, do not like blue paint, ergo paint your kitchen blue and you will be immune. This fact was transmitted by French scientists, who tried the experiment and found it admirable.

The second preventive comes from India, and consists in growing hops about your home. A missionary told Dr. Crumbine that the natives plant the hop vine about their houses, and that they are never bothered by flies.

Meanwhile, we have the trusty screen and the knowledge that the fly prospers only where there is filth.

POSTAL REGULATIONS

Editor AMERICAN:

Your editorial on the Postoffice Department is in the right direction. I hope you will follow it up. The Inland Printer says:

"In the decade from 1901 to 1910, inclusive, 11,563 publications were strangled at birth (denied entry), and the established papers that died were 32,000. How many of these were forced to give up the struggle on account of the hard conditions imposed by the Government, we have no means of knowing." J. F. HARTMANN.

PREVENTING BRUSH FIRES

Editor AMERICAN:

In some parts of Maine and in New York the railroads are using (from their own volition, or possibly have been forced to) oil for fuel to minimize the danger from setting fires from sparks. As the districts in our State that have suffered most from fire are the Plymouth and Cape divisions of the New Haven railroad, why not advocate the using of oil in the engines on these divisions of the railroad? Oil is easily obtainable and is probably comparatively as cheap as coal, and if these forest fire losses are taken into account it would soon equalise any difference.

CLANG! CLANG!
WONDER WHERE THE FIRE IS!
OH MR. SHERLOCKO! HENRY LEFT THE HOUSE TWO HOURS AGO TO GO TO A FIRE, AND HE HASN'T RETURNED! I FEAR HE HAS BEEN BURIED UNDER FALLING WALLS OR SOMETHING!
HENPECKO LIVES UP THIS WAY, OLD TOP!
QUITE RIGHT, WATSO, THAT'S THE VERY REASON I'M GOING IN THE OPPOSITE DIRECTION!
HADN'T WE BETTER GO TO HEADQUARTERS AND FIND OUT WHO WAS HURT IN THE FIRE?
THERE HAS BEEN NO FIRE, WATSO! IT WAS A FALSE ALARM! I ALWAYS KEEP IN TOUCH WITH THE FIRE DEPARTMENT!
RIGHT, WATSO,—THAT'S WHERE WE'LL FIND OUR MAN!
THERE SEEMS TO BE A LOT OF EXCITEMENT OVER THERE!

THE WAY THE WORLD GROWS BETTER

Written for the Boston American

By Dr. C. H. Parkhurst

Copyright, 1911, by the National News Association

ANY man who is in a normal condition of body and mind is certain to be an optimist. We are made in that way, just as boats are built to run forward and not backward. It is part of our natural creed.

Despondency, either in regard to ourselves or to things generally, is a form either of invalidism or of insanity. It is because human nature is constructed in that way that there has been made the progress to which history bears unhesitating testimony.

Optimism Made Early Hebrews Benefactors of Race

It is because optimism was so great a passion with the early Hebrews that they have been able to be such benefactors to the race. Some people [illegible] not believe in the Hebrews. We should have had a great deal less to believe in had it not been for them or for some others like them who put the golden age in the future rather than in the past.

However we may account for it, there does exist in the world a tendency toward betterment. If only we are willing not to have existing evils so close to our eyes as to prevent us seeing anything else we appreciate the progressive drift of events and the gradual gain in the tone of men's hopes and ideals.

Nor need we look back a great way in order to realize the steps of progress that have been taken. Every now and then a man comes forward in a public way and seemingly by the force of his own personality and character, gives an upward movement to the thought and ambitions of people.

Mr Roosevelt was one such man. Whatever criticism may be passed on some of his individual acts he undoubtedly communicated a positive moral impulse to private and public life. And he was able to do it because people were in a condition to have it done. They had themselves grown to the point where all that was needed was some pronounced and commanding expression of chivalrous moral purpose such as Mr. Roosevelt, by the opportunity of his quality and position, was able to make.

All through the country he gave, especially to young men, a higher moral tone, because they had already ripened to the point where they were WAITING to have it given to them.

How Peace Sentiment Has Grown Throughout the World

That is the work that great men do; they push into flower the buds that are just READY to flower.

One need not look back many years to realize what an advance has also been made in the growth of the peace sentiment. That sentiment has been in course of interrupted development for two thousand years. Through all that time the consciousness has been growing more and more distinct that it is against nature that one man should kill his neighbor, or that one nation should deal murderously with another nation.

At the psychologic moment it was the Czar, singularly enough (for God makes the wrath of men to praise him), who gave to the sentiment of international peace overt expression by initiating The Hague conference.

The progress since that time has been so rapid that we can mark its steps and almost hear its going till it has blossomed into the proposed treaty that is now being considered between our country and Great Britain, and which, when consummated, will almost, of necessity, eventuate in course of time into international pacification that will be universal.

These facts in the world's history are, of course, known to all, but it is important to consider them as clear evidences of the fact that the world is on the make; that it is somehow in the nature of things that conditions should appreciate rather than depreciate; that a pessimist is a kind of "freak," and that disbelief in the oncoming of a better and better future is out of key with the music that has thus far been rendered by the nations and the centuries.

The Art of Fitting Ourselves to Things as They Come

THE art of comfortable living is to have a disposition sufficiently flexible to fit into the curvatures of altering circumstances. A straight iron rod will fit easily into a straight hole, but something in the way of a steel spring will answer better if the hole is likely to be twisted or warped out of rectilinear.

It would be exceedingly convenient if we could send in our order and have the order filled with circumstances squared to our liking; but as circumstances are ordinarily constructed without any special reference to our particular tastes or temperament, and as it is usually the case that those circumstances are too rigid to be bent into more congenial shape, the adaptedness needed to make us and circumstances fit each other will have to be mostly, if not altogether, of our own making.

Under those conditions there will be less wear and tear in crooking ourselves to the curvature of circumstance, just as, when it was very cold, instead of beating our heads against the weather and smashing the thermometer, we put on woolens.

And so by rationally accepting the inclemency of the weather we get the better of its inclemency, which is IN ALL MATTERS a reasonable and Christian way of behaving.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever;
Its loveliness increases; it will never
Pass into nothingness.

He Writes About Game People

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

WIFE, sed Pa, I have always heard you saying that wimmen is gamer than men. Now, I think myself, sed Pa, that in sum cases wimmen has been gamer than men, but to-nite I am going to show you a man that is reely game—as game as myself.

He was a old soldier which fought in the war of the Rebelyun, Pa sed. His naim is Leeds, & during the yeers that he served with the Confederates he was as solid as the rock of Gibraltar. Nobody ever made him run, sed Pa. He was a royal heero.

Husband, sed Ma, I have seen a grate variety of yure frends, sum of wich you sed was brilyunt & sum of wich you sed was braive, but moastly thay have turned out sort of foney. I hoap yure new frend will prove a excepshun to the rule. I suppoas you reemember Fighting Jack McGee, the Beverly Bouncer, that you brought up here, & that got licked by a littel waiter that saim nite wen we all went out to git a club sanwich.

I will admit that I have gone rong onst or twice in the peepul that I have interduced, sed Pa, but this Mister Leeds is differnt. He is a fine, cleen cut old gentleman of the school now ded, a gentleman wich dident know the meening of the word feer, unless maybe he mite cum hoam late sum nite. Jest wait till you see him, sed Pa, that will be enuff to satisfy you.

Jest then Mister Leeds caim in, & brought a frend with him wich was also a old soldier. I want you to meet a frend of mine, sed Mr. Leeds to Pa & Ma, his naim is Siegfried & he fought with Stonewall Jackson. Him & me had many a hand to hand conflick. Ware the shot & shell was flying, there was always me & him.

Yes, sed Mister Siegfried, after he had been interduced. Yes, I am glad to say that I was side by side with Comrade Leeds wen the shot & shell was flying. Them was the days that tried the nation's soul. I reemember the day that I shot four of the enemy, & I shot them all singel handed. Men was gaim in them days, wasent thay?

Men was always game, sed Pa. My wife says that wimmen can stand a littel moar than men. I say that she is wrong. I say that a man can stand moar than a woman, wen it cums to the finest kind of bravery. Leeds, sed Pa, tell them about the time that you shot Captain Nick in the shins.

I dident shoot him in the shins, sed Mister Leeds, I shot him in the calves. He was running away from me. There is no two ways about it, a heero is always a heero. I have stood on battel feelds wen the whole thing looked like a shambels. I have seen brave men getting thare heds shot off & have never flinched.

Wonderful, sed Ma.

Jest then the tellefone rang & Pa went to the fone, & he sed Mister Leeds, yure wife wants to speek to you. Tell her I ain't here, & havent been, sed Mister Leeds, & he put on his coat & hat & ran.

Ha, ha, sed Ma, so men is gamer than wimmen, are thay?

What is the end of fame? 'Tis but to fill
A certain portion of uncertain paper.
